VACCINE DEVELOPERS: University of California — San Francisco researchers tell news conference Wednesday that vaccine against pneumonia, deadly killer of thousands of Americans annually, may be on market by year's end. SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A pneumonia vaccine may be available by the end of the year that would, for the first time, catch America's fifth biggest killer before the infection sets in, researchers said.

If the vaccine is approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration, it will be given nationally to three groups of people highly susceptible to pneumonia: the elderly, children with missing or defective spleens, and the estimated 50,000 persons — mostly blacks — who suffer from sickle cell anemia, the researchers said.

The results of a two-year study of 77 San Francisco Bay area black children with sickle cell who had been immunized by an experimental vaccine were announced at a news conference Wednesday by a team of researchers from the University of California at San Francisco.

"We have not seen adverse effects other than some local pain and fever," said Dr. Arthur Ammann, a UCSF director of pediatric immunology. "We feel it is a very safe vaccine."

Ammann suggested the vaccine eventually could join the arsenal of traditional immunizations, like polio, given all children.

Joining Ammann at the conference were Dr. William Mentzer and Dr. Joseph Addiego, both of UCSF. Results of their study were published today in The New England Journal of Medicine.

The vaccine is an "effective preventive treatment for one of the most important causes of death for children with sickle cell," Mentzer said. "We believe that cause of death can virtually be eliminated by prior immunization."

Despite antibiotics, pneumonia kills an estimated 25,000 Americans annually, doctors said. For some persons, the infection spreads through the body too quickly for drugs to be effective.

Heart disease is the most frequent cause of death in the United States, followed by cancer, accidents and cerebral vascular disorders.

The UCSF study found for the 77 children tested, the vaccine was 100 per cent effective in guarding against the "pneumococcus" bacteria, which causes pneumonia and other diseases.

Doctors said they also found the vaccine effective in 19 children whose spleens were missing or defective and were easy targets for the infection.

A similar vaccine was found effective for older adults in a series of tests just completed by Dr. Robert Austrian at the University of Pennsylvania.

SEARS EXCELLENCE AWARD: Whirlpool Corporation has received a Sears Symbol of Excellence Award for producing quality products for Sears. This award was to Whirlpool Corporation as a whole and was the first time Sears had presented the honor to an entire company. From left: James J. McCarthy, Sears group buying coordinator for home appliances; Robert R. Thompson, group national merchandising manager for home appliances and home entertainment for Sears; John H. Platts, Whirlpool board chairman; and Herbert K. Anspach, Whirlpool president. Thompson said all nine Whirlpool divisions received individual Symbol of Excellence Awards this year. Awards are for 1976 performances. Thompson noted: "You put it all together." He said less than five percent of Sears 12,000 suppliers were so honored.

President Of MSU Takes Job In East

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — After seven years as president of Michigan State University, Clifton Wharton Jr. is moving east to take the helm of the sprawling State University of New York.

Wharton, 51, told a news conference Wednesday he could not refuse the chance to become chancellor of the nation's largest university system, even though it will mean a 15 per cent cut in pay.

"The excitement and

Leaves Calmer Campus

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Clifton Wharton Jr. will leave Michigan State University much calmer than he found it when he takes over as chancellor of State University of New York.

Wharton's impending move was announced Wednesday here and at the Albany headquarters of the huge SUNY system.

The 51-year-old Wharton took over as president of MSU in 1970, inheriting the job of calming almost a decade of student unrest which culminated in a takeover of the administration building in 1972.

Since then he has survived football recruiting scandals, a recessionary budget crunch, massive campus flooding in 1975 and battles with the state and federal governments over air pollution from a campus power plant.

Asked at a news conference Wednesday to describe his most significant achievement as MSU's president, Wharton answered, "Looking back on the beginning and now, I'm tempted to say survival."

In taking the post of chancellor at SUNY, Wharton assumes control of the nation's largest centralized system of higher education.

Ironically, Wharton last

challenge of heading the higher education system of the nation's second-largest state make the offer of the SUNY Board of Trustees much too attractive to resist," he said.

Choking back tears, Wharton added: "That excitement is tempered, however, by the deep regret I will have in leaving Michigan State University."

SUNY's 64 campuses have more than 350,000 students to MSU's 44,000.

Wharton said he would be paid $56,850 to head the New York school. He makes $85,000 as president of MSU.

"Those who know me know that I do not change jobs on the basis of financial considerations," Wharton said.

Wharton, who became MSU's first black president in January, 1970, will be the seventh president in SUNY's 25-year history.

He said he expects to leave the East Lansing campus for SUNY's Albany headquarters around the first of the year.

An interim MSU president probably will have to be appointed until the university's Board of Trustees can find a permanent successor to Wharton, board Chairman Patricia Carrigan said.

Reports that Wharton has sought other positions — including the presidency of Harvard University and the University of Chicago, two schools he has attended — have circulated since shortly after he came here.

When asked what made SUNY's offer more attractive than the others, he cited the New York school's size, its reputation for academic excellence and potential for growth. In assuming the position at SUNY, Wharton will encounter an enormous educational system that faces economic troubles and a decline in enrollment after nearly two decades of steady growth.

There is a virtual moratorium on new construction at the campuses. Dozens of faculty members have been laid off in the last two years and morale reportedly is low at many units.

Those problems sound "very familiar," Wharton said, referring to fiscal problems suffered during the recent recession by both MSU and the state of Michigan.

On Wednesday, SUNY trustees approved a $757 million proposed budget for next year. That would mean a 13 per cent

MOVING ON: Michigan State University President Clifton R. Wharton Jr. reported Wednesday that he will accept the position of Chancellor of the State University of New York. Accompanied by his wife, Dolores, Wharton expressed his excitement on the new position and the sorrow of leaving MSU after eight years. (AP Wirephoto)

Daughter Says Mother Beaten Many Times

By CYNTHIA KYLE
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The 12-year-old daughter of a Dansville woman charged with killing her ex-husband says her father beat her mother "too many times to count."

Christy Hughes, whose soft voice barely could be heard in Ingham County Circuit Court, said Wednesday during the third day of her mother's murder trial that her father often threatened to kill her mother.

Francine Hughes, 30, is charged with first-degree murder in the death of James Hughes. It is a case that feminists say may result in a landmark decision on the rights of women abused by their husbands.

Hughes, 31, divorced in 1971 from the high school sweetheart he married in 1965, died of smoke inhalation March 9 during a fire at the couple's Dansville home.

Hughes began living almost exclusively with his ex-wife after he was disabled in an automobile accident. Mrs. Hughes' lawyer says she was forced to set the fire to protect herself from further beatings.

Christy, an attractive brown-haired girl, detailed a series of beatings she said preceded her father's death. Christy's brother, James, 11, also was in the house when the alleged beatings occurred.

Christy, a seventh-grader, told the 12-woman and two-man jury that the day he died her father was "sitting in his chair drinking beer" when she walked home from school.

The final dispute began over frozen dinners Mrs. Hughes was preparing for dinner after she returned from a trip to the grocery store following sece-

Gym Accident Hurts SJ Girl

A 15-year-old Royalton Township girl was reported in "stable" condition this morning in the intensive care unit at Memorial Hospital after she suffered a head injury in an accident Wednesday in the St. Joseph High School gymnasium.

St. Joseph schools Superintendent Burton Aldrich said this morning Kathleen A. Romeu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aurelio Romeu, of 4465 Terra Lane, was injured when she was apparently caught between two sections of a large mechanically-operated partition that was being closed.

Aldrich said investigation of the accident is continuing, and Mrs. Lee Poore, teacher of the physical education class Kathleen was attending when the accident occurred, is expected to submit a formal written report to school administrators this afternoon.

According to Aldrich, Miss Romeu was injured when she fell into the opening between two sections of the mechanically-operated partition while attempting to retrieve a ball.

Aldrich said the partition, which is used to divide the varsity gym in two sections, had been opened by Mrs. Poore, then was being closed when Kathleen fell into the narrowing gap and was struck by the panels.

Kathleen had reportedly been standing on the shoulders of a second girl attempting to free a ball stuck in a gap in the slightly open partition just before the accident, according to Aldrich.

Kathleen was taken to the hospital by Medic 1 ambulance and admitted at 12:10 p.m., a hospital spokesman said.

Doctors Prescribe Boycott

TROY, Mich. (AP) — Prescribing war against the state's biggest health insurer, the Michigan State Medical Society has urged its 8,700 members to drop out of Blue Cross-Blue Shield in protest of a plan that would limit the Blues' payments to doctors.

The society, which represents 50 per cent of the state's doctors, also voted in an emergency meeting Wednesday to sue the Blues and, if necessary, to drop its own health insurance program with the agency.

"The days of love with Blue Cross-Blue Shield are over," said Dr. Louis Zako, one of the society's 183 delegates who approved the boycott.

A successful boycott could mean that Michigan's 5.4 million Blues subscribers would have to pay higher out-of-pocket costs for doctor bills. Doctors who do not have agreements with the Blues can bill patients for the difference between their usual fees and what the Blues will pay.

About 62 per cent of the state's doctors, most of them in the metropolitan Detroit area, have participation contracts with the Blues in which they agree to accept whatever the health insurer pays as full reimbursement for their services.

To increase the participation by doctors outside of the Detroit area, the Blues have announced changes in the payment system, effective Jan. 1, that would financially favor doctors who signed the agreements.

The Blues also have announced that they will start new hearing and vision care programs July 1 for the United Auto Workers, their largest subscriber group. These programs would pay full benefits only to patients who go to participating doctors.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield says its plan is aimed at holding down soaring health care costs.

However, many doctors fear that one day the Blues will reimburse only those doctors who sign participation agreements with the Blues.

The doctors hope to prove in a suit that the Blues action is an illegal assault on patients' freedom of choice in selecting doctors. The society voted to increase its membership dues $5 a year to pay for legal fees.

Dr. Sidney Adler of Detroit, one of the few dissenters at Wednesday's meeting, was jeered when he told other delegates that a boycott against the Blues would be illegal.

"You're going to be charged with restraint of trade and attempts to fix prices," said Adler, a past president of the medical society.

Cutback For Amtrak Is Hard To Justify

Six years ago the Nixon Administration, Congress and the public felt the problem of deteriorating rail passenger service would be met for all time in the personage of Amtrak, a federally chartered and owned corporation to haul people from one destination to another.

At the time the privately owned lines were averaging a $500 million annual loss in the passenger trade.

Commuter lines serving metropolitan areas and the Northeast Corridor (Boston to Washington, D.C.) contributed to the red ink showing.

Against its will and over vigorous protests from many local community groups, the Interstate Commerce Commission was being forced to grant an increasing amount of service withdrawal. The same economic reality exerted the same pressure upon state regulatory agencies having jurisdiction over purely local lines.

Yet the demand and the need for rail passenger service were demonstrably present.

The White House and Congressional solution was a compromise between private ownership and public operation.

The private lines retained ownership of the rights of way. Amtrak purchased such of their locomotives, and cars as appeared requisite to run its trains over routes selected by Amtrak. The private lines, in turn, performed equipment maintenance for a fee.

Where Amtrak decided it was not crucial to a given area to maintain passenger service, the private lines were free to abandon their service simply by notifying the ICC to that effect. The Chesapeake & Ohio's elimination of the Chicago-Grand Rapids run came about in that manner.

Anticipating that Amtrak would start off in the same deficit manner plaguing the private carriers, it was understood Congress would fund the agency for an indefinite period into the future.

The arrangement's performance has been spotty.

Amtrak has demonstrated it can attract a passenger increase where the agency has been able to replace the aging equipment acquired in the 1971 takeover. The same improvement factor shows once the original indifferent service by Amtrak employees is corrected.

Offsetting this gain to the negative side of the balance are other troublesome causes.

The private lines under contract to maintain the equipment are not stretching themselves to the limit. Neither are they maintaining their tracks for a smoother ride than is necessary to haul freight.

Adding to those woes is Congress which takes its cues in appropriating a budget for Amtrak from the Department of Transportation.

Amtrak had requested a $534.1 million subsidy for the fiscal year beginning this October 1st.

The Appropriation Committees in the House and Senate reduced that grant to $488.5 million.

Subsequently Amtrak sought a $56.5 million supplemental grant for fiscal 1978.

Unless the supplemental grant is made within this week Amtrak plans to trim service on many of its routes this Sunday.

Particularly hard hit will be the Northeast Corridor where an average of 22 trains daily will be decommissioned.

Also destined for Sunday implementation will be fare increases from 2 1/2 to 5 per cent on most Amtrak routes.

Cutbacks of that dimension have moved Ella Grasso, Connecticut's governor, to accuse Washington of trying to convert the Nutmeg state into a wasteland.

Paul Reistrup, Amtrak's president, says if the country does not want to rebuild and support a properly operated system, then it should eliminate the present plan entirely.

The stance of DOT and Congress is puzzling.

The amount spent on Amtrak is but a fraction of what the government puts into highway and airport assistance.

Even a modest increase for Amtrak will stave off some of the traffic crunch on the highways and the overworking of the nation's major airports.

If he can find a few loose dollars in a shrinking pocketbook, maybe Reistrup should consider an Amtrak lobby to do battle with the highway and airport enthusiasts.

SNAG RULE COMES AS A SURPRISE

Editor: The law says a fish taken by a legal sized baited hook or artificial lure, set anywhere other than in the mouth, is illegal. This is termed foul hooking, not to be confused with bare grappling hook methods of fishing. If this sounds surprising to you, join the many of us at St. Joe pier who were surprised.

It is a common practice of the Dept. of Natural Resources to switch conservation officers from location to location so local sportsman, and the not-sportsman, don't know when they are being watched. Offenders can more easily be caught using these "undercover" techniques. I feel this is a good method to insure sound conservation practices are upheld.

This letter is not to take issue with the foul hooked fishing law laid down by the DNR, but the method of its enforcement.

Satur day morning I had been conversing with another fisherman on the pier. A minute later I had a big one on my line. Unknown to myself and my future father-in-law (an avid fisherman for 40 years), the fish was illegally hooked. Not until I left the pier did I find the fisherman I had spoken to was a DNR officer. And so the story and surmises go.

In each of these "snagging" cases the DNR officers must witness the catch, giving the enforcement officer many opportunities to drop a hint that the catch is illegal, thus giving a chance to see justice done.

If the DNR officers are there to see wildlife conservation practiced, they seem to be missing the point. The officer didn't have to approach me as an official, but as a fellow sportsman, not risking "blowing his cover."

Are the DNR officers there to see the law obeyed, or to meet quotas and make money for the state?

Lets all clear up our act, especially the DNR, so a good time can be had by all.

CYCLISTS URGED TO OBEY THE RULES

Editor: Next week we'll all be driving home in the dark and we'll be playing that yearly guessing game, "Is that shadow ahead a bicyclist, jogger, small child or large dog?"

Would you please remind all cyclists that they are subject to the same rules of the road as the motorist — that includes young paper boys as well as middle-aged persons.

Most older motorists have learned to exercise extreme caution whenever they see a cyclist, having learned by experience that cyclists are chronic law breakers. However, if the motorist cannot see the biker for lack of reflectors or head lamps, no matter how experienced that motorist, he is going to have a hard time avoiding the biker.

The majority of new drivers, fresh out of Driver's Ed, are trying to obey all the rules, but they have not yet learned that cyclists seem to think they lead a charmed life. Cyclists do not stop for stop signs, they do not yield right of way, most of the time they do not even ride on the correct side of the road.

A huge reminder on your part might help save a life and/or avoid an accident, and those of us who are parents of new drivers would be ever so grateful to you.

Barbara Byrd
Stevensville

P.S. To those cyclists who do obey the rules, we motorists so very much appreciate having you out there. It is a pleasure to share the road with you, and you would do all of us a favor if you would share your cycling knowledge with those who are not as careful as you are.

At 12:30 p.m. the old ship, seeming to kindle new life when she once more came in sight of Lake Michigan's blue waters, broke loose after being expertly nudged up to the pier. ## The Spoils Of 'War On Poverty'

WASHINGTON — After President Lyndon B. Johnson proclaimed the "war on poverty" in the mid-1960s, the early recruits at the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) had visions of orchestrating a truly major social revolution from a government building.

Those dreams didn't last long. As soon as it became apparent that the poor were beginning to organize on their own behalf, mayors and other local politicians in communities throughout the country realized that their own political careers were in jeopardy.

They pressured Johnson for relief, and he obliged by throttling many of OEO's most daring initiatives. When Richard M. Nixon entered the White House a few years later, he launched an unabashed effort to totally destroy the anti-poverty program.

Those high-level pressures took their toll on the "war on poverty," but the failure of the program to even approach its original goals is attributable in far greater measure to circumstances over which the White House had little control.

The effort to wipe out poverty floundered after it lost public support—and that occurred as a result of a disconcerting series of disclosures about corruption, avarice, venality and outright theft among the recipients and local administrators of the millions of dollars in federal funds being doled out annually.

OEO now is long gone, but the anti-poverty program still is very much alive. Its current incarnation is a "low profile" federal agency called the Community Services Administration (CSA).

According to CSA officials who testified earlier this year at a little-noticed congressional hearing, graft and corruption also are still very much alive within the program. In one case cited in that testimony, a CSA investigator from Washington was en route to question the director of an unidentified local community action agency about reports of missing funds.

The suspect enticed the aid of a CSA regional director, who dissuaded his superiors in Washington from taking hasty action. CSA later discovered that the suspect "had embezzled $10,000 and subsequently became a fugitive," explained one agency representative. "I don't know whether he has ever been apprehended."

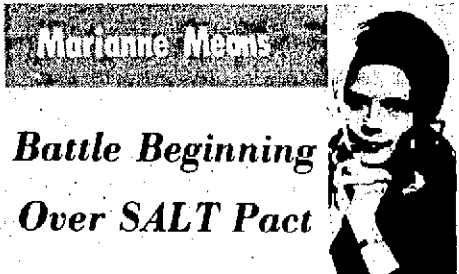

In another instance, a community action agency located in an unidentified city paid $38,000 annually to retain the services of a Washington law firm. Its officials may have been involved in conflicts of interest and it purchased goods and services at "excessively high" costs, according to the testimony.

The executive director of the local anti-poverty agency in Monmouth, N.J., spent $19,000 on personal travel in 1974. He usually traveled first class and "often times with a companion," CSA officials testified.

Federal anti-poverty funds also were used to pay for that same person's life insurance premiums, color television and stereo sets, repairs to his home and tickets to football games.

The individual remains executive director of the community action agency because CSA has been unable to take any action against him, according to the congressional testimony.

The middle-class and wealthy people whose tax money is at stake are quick to become outraged about such situations—and rightfully so. The poor invariably are less indignant, but in the long run it is they who suffer the most serious harm, because of program cutbacks.

WASHINGTON — A new arms pact with the Soviet Union is still in the tentative stage, but already the White House is thinking about how to sell it to the U.S. public, and two private foreign policy groups are preparing to fight over it.

The White House plans to form a blue-ribbon committee to back the new SALT agreement, similar to the one recently organized to mobilize public support for the Panama Canal treaty. Some details remain to be settled, but the administration is optimistic that a pact limiting arms development may be reached by January.

Meanwhile, two prominent, privately funded organizations which have been waging a publicity war this year over the course of U.S.-Soviet relations are monitoring the progress of the negotiations.

The Committee on the Present Danger is concerned that the administration may make too many concessions to the Soviets. Sen. Henry Jackson, whose views coincide with the CPD, recently indicated some alarm that the agreement might give the Soviets a military advantage.

The American Committee on East-West Accord, by contrast, is worried that the president might be so tough it would scuttle the proposed pact. This group believes CPD greatly exaggerates the Soviet threat and feels that any missed opportunity for arms control would further erode détente, endangering American security.

Both non-profit, non-partisan committees, philosophical narrow images of each other, are composed of distinguished and well-known foreign policy experts and celebrities. CPD was formed a year ago and has a head start on the American Committee in the publicity game; it has also raised more money so far.

The American Committee was incorporated specifically to counter CPD, which it believes is pushing the U.S. back to the days of the Cold War. During a board meeting earlier this month, former Gov. Averell Harriman discussed at length his views on the irrationality of the arms race and the importance of normalizing relations with the Soviet Union. He emphasized his conviction, based on conversations with Russian leaders, that a military confrontation with the U.S. is the last thing the Soviet leadership contemplates.

A recent CPD statement warned "if we continue to drift, we shall be come second best to the Soviet Union in overall military strength." It urged higher levels of military spending and warned that this country underestimates the Soviet drive to expand its political and military influence throughout the world.

Thus far, CPD, which has 141 members, has concentrated upon publishing pamphlets seeking to arouse the public to what its members see as the principal threat to the nation. The American Committee, with 150 members, is preparing a film to present a less alarmist point of view of Soviet military capabilities and intentions. It has asked for equal air time on local TV stations to rebut an American Security Council film which calls for military budget increases.

To Be Deported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deportation proceedings are under way for two Lithuanians wanted by the Soviet Union for a 1970 airplane hijacking. The State Department said Wednesday that Pranas Brazinskas and his son Algirdas, entered the United States illegally last year. They requested political asylum and the plea was rejected, the department said.

One Way To Think You're Sleeping Longer

Want to play a good trick on yourself? Forget about changing your clock back an hour when standard time goes into effect at 2:00 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 30. Then, when your alarm blares Monday morning, just roll over and relax. You'll still have an hour to sleep. Most people now accept these semi-annual time changes as natural, but it was actually necessity that spurred their invention.

Daylight saving time made its debut as a wartime conservation measure. First adopted in 1918 and 1919, it was meant to conserve fuel and increase national efficiency. Franklin D. Roosevelt reinstituted "war time" in 1942. Soon after the war, in September 1945, it was eliminated, although individual cities and states opted to retain it. Daylight saving time became national policy once more with the Uniform Time Act of 1966. The law stated that all states — unless exempted by their legislatures — must institute daylight saving time from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October. Arizona, Hawaii and part of Indiana maintain such exemptions.

Since then, Congress has also tried to use daylight saving time as a defense measure in another war — the energy crisis. A law took effect Jan. 6, 1974, establishing year-round DST to help cut national energy consumption. Arguments which led to the eventual repeal of winter DST centered on child safety. In several states, children were killed or injured traveling to school in the dark. Many schools were forced to delay their starting time by as much as an hour so children could walk in daylight. Soon after the 1974 school year started, President Ford signed a bill into law re-establishing standard time for autumn and winter.

If you know it's time to change your clock but can't remember if you lose or gain an hour, just use the old memory aid — "spring forward, fall back." Oh, and if you decide to change your clock Monday morning, don't forget to reset the alarm.

School Trial Eyes Eaman Transfer First

LOUIS GELDER

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

KALAMAZOO — A Coloma School District teacher testified Wednesday he believes there was no racism involved in the 1970 transfer of the all-white Eaman Elementary School area from the Benton Harbor School District to Coloma.

"It was not racial and I want to emphasize that, because if it were, I'd be the last person for it," said Floyd Mattheussen, a government, conservation and history teacher at Coloma High School and a former Democratic state legislator.

Mattheussen and Coloma School Board member Louis Gelder were called to the witness stand during the opening day of phase two of the Benton Harbor schools desegregation trial to explain their roles in getting the state Board of Education to approve the transfer. The desegregation case is being tried before U.S. District Judge Noel P. Fox at the Federal Building in Kalamazoo.

NAACP attorney Thomas Atkins, representing plaintiffs in the class action suit, said after court he zeroed in on the Eaman transfer in an effort to show that the Coloma School Board contributed to illegal segregation in the Benton Harbor School District.

The transfer, which was never endorsed by the Coloma School Board, removed 150 white students from the Benton Harbor School District which was 50 per cent black at the time. The Coloma district is virtually all white.

Atkins said he believes the Coloma board was "sophisticated enough" to realize that its professed neutrality on the Eaman transfer issue would be interpreted as support by the state board.

The Coloma School District is one of 10 defendants on trial in phase two of the case which is expected to run through the end of November.

The other defendants are the governor of Michigan, the attorney general, the state Board of Education, the state superintendent of public instruction, the state Boundary Commission, the Berrien County Intermediate School District, the Eau Claire School District, Concerned Parents of Eaman School, and Concerned Parents and Taxpayers of Sodas.

The Benton Harbor School District was tried during phase one, and Judge Fox found the school board "guilty" of creating and perpetuating a racially segregated district. The plaintiffs are seeking a court-ordered remedy that could involve cross-district busing or revision of school boundary lines.

Atkins has scheduled 35 witnesses during the plaintiffs' presentation, including Gov. William Milliken and Attorney General Frank Kelley.

George McCarger, one of three attorneys representing state officials, said he will take action to oppose appearances by Milliken and Kelley if Atkins does not excuse them. Milliken is scheduled to appear Nov. 10 and Kelley, Nov. 11.

In testimony yesterday, Atkins asked Gelder if he thought some Eaman petitioners were trying to get away from black students in Benton Harbor schools.

"I do not know," Gelder responded. "I did not question them about it."

Gelder, who lives in the Eaman School area, told the court he helped in the transfer effort before he was elected to the Coloma School Board in June, 1971.

He said Eaman residents probably would not have voted in consolidate with the Benton Harbor district in 1965 if the area had then been contiguous with Coloma.

It was not until after the consolidation that the Pier School District north of Eaman joined the Coloma district, making Coloma contiguous with the Eaman area, Gelder said.

Gelder said he supported the transfer because Eaman voters did not have an opportunity to join the Coloma district in 1965.

He said that since he has been on the Coloma board, he has opposed proposals to transfer the North Shore and Millburg areas to Coloma because voters there had an opportunity to join other districts besides Benton Harbor in 1965.

Gelder said he helped collect $40,000 in donations from Eaman area residents to pay the Benton Harbor district for the loss of the Eaman building and property on the northeast corner of Eaman Road and Maple Lane.

The payment was ordered by the state Board of Education in March, 1971, following an appeal of its 1970 ruling in favor of the transfer. The Berrien County Intermediate School Board had opposed the Eaman transfer on grounds it would further segregation in the Benton Harbor district.

Gelder also testified that he transferred three of his children from Catholic schools to Coloma schools in 1972. He said none of his four children had ever been enrolled in Benton Harbor schools.

Phase II Of Desegregation Case Opens In Kalamazoo

He said he transferred the children to take advantage of Coloma's vocational education program.

Gelder said that at a state hearing on the Eaman transfer in February, 1970, he testified it was his opinion the Coloma board would accept Eaman if the Benton Harbor board would release it.

He said yesterday that opinion stemmed from informal conversations he had with Coloma board members Merlin Hauch and Kay Erickson who were customers at Gelder's farm supply store in Millburg.

Mattheussen, who served as 44th District representative in 1965-66, denied that he had ever lobbied on behalf of the Coloma board in the Eaman transfer case.

He said he contacted six state board of education members before they made their decision, but he did it because of his personal belief that the Eaman residents had a "strong case."

"I did not urge them (state board members) to vote in a particular way," Mattheussen said. All he did was explain the "rationale" of the case and ask them to give it a fair hearing, he said.

He said he favored the Eaman transfer because Coloma High School needed additional enrollment so it could offer quality education programs.

"The Eaman people added to our enrollment, they helped us," Mattheussen told Atkins. "I would like to say, sir, that any black student would be welcome at Coloma."

Mattheussen was scheduled to continue testifying this morning. He is to be followed by Coloma Superintendent William Barrett.

BH Panel, Placement Officials Meet To Help Pick School Chief

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

A special committee of 10 citizens selected by the Benton Harbor Area School Board met with placement officials from six state universities this week to give advice on the hiring of a new school superintendent.

Serving on the panel are Earl Patterson, Benton Township planning commissioner; Marvin Priebe, Benton Township fruit grower; Mary DeFoe, president of Twin Cities NAACP chapter; Benton Harbor Mayor Joel Patterson; Sammie Smith, executive director of Benton Harbor and Benton Township Housing Commissions.

Also, Walter Heritz, Benton Township fruit grower; George Westfield, Berrien County Friend of Court; Alden Bierman, retired high school assistant principal; Irene Fox, former school board member, and Manie Yarbrough, manager of Berrien Homes apartments.

The university placement officers the group met with included Evert Ardis, University of Michigan; Carl Brautigam, Michigan State University; Donald Boyd, Eastern Michigan University; Leon Burgoyne, Western Michigan University; Dr. Howard Reilly, Wayne State University, and Charles Alexander, Central Michigan University.

After receiving similar direction from the school board, the placement officials have been asked to narrow some 83 applications for the post to a final list of about 10 names, Board President E.E. (Bill) Bentley said. No time table has been set for the final selection, he said.

The school board, acting in committees and individually, will review the final qualifications before narrowing the search to a group of three, Bentley said. The final trio of candidates will be interviewed in a public meeting.

Richard Heiser has resigned as superintendent to accept a post as vice president of Fister and Clements Realtors, a Twin Cities real estate agency. The board appointed Dean Sanders, deputy superintendent, as acting superintendent until a new chief executive is selected.

Bentley said the citizens committee was selected as a cross section of the community. The board selected the committee after each board member submitted a list of nominees, he said. "Involving citizens in this process helps bring the schools and community closer together," he said. "We made a commitment to citizen involvement in the selection of our next superintendent, and we have kept that promise."

Bainbridge Crash Hospitalizes Woman

A Benton Township woman was reported in "fair" condition this morning in Mercy Hospital after she was injured in a one-car accident in Bainbridge Township Wednesday night.

Berrien Sheriff's Sgt. James Bale reported Theresa Ann Tarantino, 20, of 1632 Johnson Road, suffered a broken leg and cuts when her auto ran off Napier Avenue West of Bainbridge Center Road and struck a tree head-on.

Theresa Ann Tarantino told police after the 9:05 p.m. accident she was westbound on Napier and swerved to avoid a second car, Bale said. The officer reported the impact of the collision demolished the Tarantino auto.

Bale said the second car did not stop at the scene of the accident and investigation of the crash continues. No tickets have been issued, he said.

In another accident, an Allegan truck driver was treated at Memorial Hospital and released Wednesday morning after a rear-end collision between two semi-truck rigs on eastbound I-94 in Chikaming Township.

State Police from the Benton Harbor Post said Norman C. Schweikert, 53, of Route 5, 2542 128th St., Allegan, was injured at 7:55 a.m. when the semi he was driving collided with the rear of a truck driven by Roger J. Mills, 57, of Sand Lake. Troopers reported Mills declined treatment for minor injuries sustained in the crash.

Sgt. Gary Ernst said Schweikert was ticketed for careless driving.

Woman's Condition 'Stable'

EAU CLAIRE — An Eau Claire woman was hospitalized following a one-car accident east of here Wednesday.

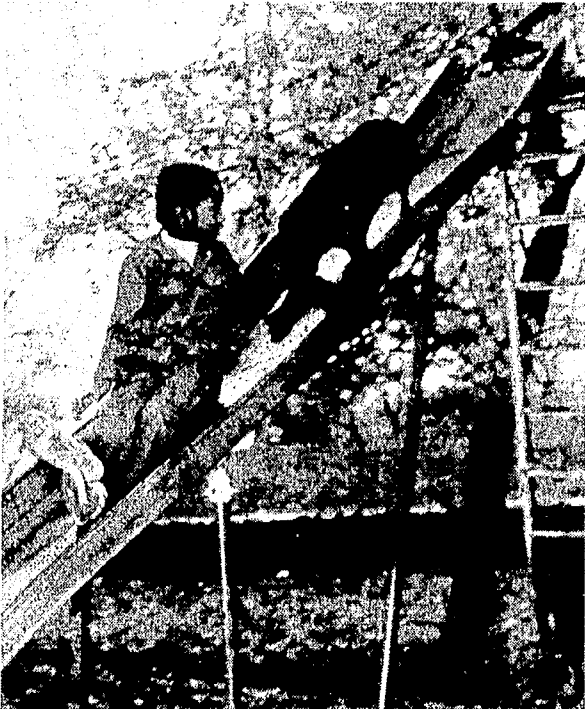

Listed in stable condition this morning at Berrien General Hospital in Berrien Center was Ruby Khemichien, 53, of 8140 Black Lake Road, Eau Claire.

State police at Niles said she lost control of her car on M-140 at M-42 about 6:30 a.m. She told troopers her vision was obstructed because of fog and her car skidded into a field.

Police said she was issued a ticket charging her with violation of the basic speed law, going too fast for conditions.

CLIMBING DOG: James Curry's part-Labrador, part-Doberman dog is quite adept at climbing. At left, James, 11, and his dog "Satan", are some 10 feet up in a tree in a park opposite the boy's home at 155 North Hull St., Benton Harbor. At right, the two come down a slide. The dog likes to climb slide steps but is apprehensive about the trip down. James, son of Mrs. Norma Curry and a sixth grader at Morton school, tricked his pet into tree climbing. He moved a park bench to base of tree and called dog to follow him up the tree. Satan jumped onto bench to reach his master. Then James took bench away, and the dog in his eagerness to follow the boy climbed up low-growing limbs into the tree. Satan, about two years old, also can catch frisbees in the air and he uses his paw to turn on a water faucet to get drink. (Staff photos)

CLEAN, ABUNDANT, AND INEXHAUSTIBLE

Solar Energy: Future Imperative

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Solar energy will be an imperative — not an option — in 100 years, according to Dr. John A. Clark, University of Michigan professor who addressed members and guests of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of the American Association of University Women.

The meeting was held Oct. 25 at the First United Methodist church in St. Joseph.

Dr. Clark, who is a professor of mechanical engineering at the university, spoke on "The Solar Option to Meet America's Energy Needs," emphasizing the need to anticipate energy needs now.

"We must now begin to keep careful accounting of all of the four commodities on which our economy depends — energy, water, food and air," he said.

Even food production depends not only on energy but air and water, that is usable even if not clean. Food production will be "quite constrained," he anticipates, by the year 2000.

Since the American Civil War, wood, coal, and petroleum production has peaked out in 60-year spans. Nuclear energy to provide fuel will gradually replace the other three as the primary source of energy, according to Dr. Clark.

"And that will peak out in the middle of the next century," he predicted.

However, Dr. Clark said, now is the time to plan more nuclear plants since they take at least 10 years to build — or even twice that long when there are environmentalist objections.

"So we know what our nuclear energy supply will be in 1987 based on the nuclear contracts being inked today," he said.

As the United States' petroleum supply dwindles, Dr. Clark said, we are going to have to depend more and more on the Arab nations for the millions of barrels of oil we need daily. "The Middle East is really where the oil is, there is where it will have to come from and that is a real political problem."

Solar energy has many positive features, but it will take a long time to bring this source of energy to a practical application, he pointed out, since it means changes of institutions and life styles — "so five per cent by the year 2,000 will be good."

There is reliable solar equipment on the market for homes and enough potential solar energy in Michigan to make it practical, he said, especially if life cycle costing is taken into consideration. This is figuring cost on entire span of time unit will be in operation rather than the minimum first cost of the equipment. Solar energy, Dr. Clark said, is clean, silent, abundant (even if the sun never shines on your picnic), widely available, dependable, and inexhaustible.

The advent of practical solar energy will bring a highly developed, centralized transportation system, he said.

Dr. Clark said that solar energy will last a long time — at least during the next 30 to 40 billion years while the sun still shines.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in 10 days before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

DREAMS ARE MADE OF CASTOR OIL AND BEESWAX

Spend $10 Billion Yearly On Cosmetics

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Castor oil, beeswax, and borax. These are the items dreams are made of for American consumers who spend nearly $10 billion a year on cosmetics and toiletry preparations.

Learning what's in the different products can help you save money, decide among competing brands and protect yourself against items to which you might be allergic.

The principal ingredient in lipstick, for example, is castor oil. Beeswax also is used in lipstick and it is mixed with borax in cleansing cream to prevent oil and water from separating.

A Food and Drug Administration regulation which took effect April 15 requires cosmetic manufacturers to list most ingredients on product labels, or, in cases where the item is very small, on accompanying packaging. But the agency says a lot of misinformation persists about what cosmetics can — and cannot — do.

The Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act defines cosmetics as substances which may be "rubbed, poured, sprinkled or sprayed on, introduced into or otherwise applied to the human body for cleansing, beautifying, promoting attractiveness or altering the appearance without affecting the body's structure or functions."

The effect on bodily functions is a key part of the definition. Products such as antiperspirants and antidandruff shampoos are legally classified as drugs because they are designed to change the way the body acts; deodorants and regular shampoos are cosmetics.

Drugs are much more strictly regulated than cosmetics. They must be proved safe and effective before they are placed on the market. No such testing is required for most cosmetic ingredients although the FDA does insist that if the manufacturer has not substantiated the safety of a product, the label must carry a statement saying: "WARNING — The safety of this product has not been determined."

Unlike the other ingredients, color additives used in cosmetics must be approved by the FDA for purity and safety. One of the best-known colorings, Red Dye No. 2, was banned by the government last year and manufacturers have been forced to develop substitutes.

Many of the color additives that have been okayed for general use in cosmetics are not approved for use in products applied around the eyes because of the sensitivity of the area. The FDA also announced recently a plan to make sure that eye cosmetics have adequate preservatives to make them bacteria free, even when exposed to potential contamination during ordinary use. The agency acted after receiving reports of instances where contaminated cosmetics caused eye infections.

While cosmetic manufacturers and retailers claim special properties for individual brands, the basic ingredients for a given product are fairly similar. The difference in product — and price — may lie mainly in packaging and promotion. Personal tastes and reactions also play a major role. What works for you may be a disaster for your neighbor.

Advertising and promotion claims may be confusing and the FDA advises consumers to take these claims with a grain of salt.

"One word ... which is probably more confusing than any other is 'moisturizer,'" says the FDA. "The word would seem to imply the product would make something moist or wet. But moisturizers do not add moisture. They merely put a protective cover on the skin, so the skin can retain its own moisture."

The FDA regulations require that ingredients be listed, by uniform names, in order of amount contained. Ingredients which constitute less than 1 percent of the product need not be listed by amount and color ingredients can be listed in any order, regardless of amount. The ingredient list does not have to include the names of specific flavors or fragrances, although the agency is considering suggestions for change in this area. If the manufacturer can show that a given ingredient is a genuine trade secret, he or she does not have to list it on the label.

The names of the ingredients may not mean much to you, but they can be important if you develop an allergy because it makes it easier for a doctor to determine to which substances you have been exposed. You also can compare the value of competing brands of cosmetics.

The regulation applies only to products manufactured after April 15. The FDA did not require a recall of items already on the market so you may still see some cosmetics on sale without ingredient lists.

Some cosmetics are advertised as "hypoallergenic" and special rules apply to these items. Under new FDA rules, a cosmetic can be labeled as hypoallergenic only if scientific studies show that it causes significantly fewer adverse reactions than competitive products used for similar purposes. Manufacturers must provide test results to the FDA before using such terms as "allergy tested," "safer for sensitive skin" or "lower rate of reactions."

Microwave Safety

WASHINGTON — Assurance of a large margin of safety for users of microwave ovens has been reaffirmed in an appliance industry statement to a congressional committee which is studying microwave safety.

The statement was submitted by Guenther Baumgart, president of the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, Chicago, on behalf of microwave oven manufacturers.

In response to an inquiry from Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (Wash.) chairman of a Senate commerce committee the statement amplified testimony given by the industry at hearings in June.

The present federal microwave oven standards afford a high degree of safety according to numerous scientific authorities, Baumgart said. The standard employs an extensive safety factor to account for use of the microwave oven by an uncontrolled population and translates the standard into a product emission standard. This makes it extremely conservative in terms of microwave exposure.

Household microwave ovens have been in use for more than two decades and more than three million are being used today. Yet no accidental injury has been found due to microwave exposure from these devices, Baumgart said.

Baumgart called attention to scientific articles spanning the past 25 years which support the adequacy of present microwave oven safety standards. He cited articles in the British Journal of Applied Physics; Electrical Engineering, IRE Transactions, the American Journal of Physical Medicine and the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The AMA editorial stated in part "...the standard adhered to by industry limits levels of typical exposure in normal use to approximately 110,000 the level known to cause harm to humans."

"Even under conditions of foreseeable misuse, safe margins are very likely maintained under this standard."

Keep Little 'Demons' Busy Making Whimsical Witch

Legend has it that on "All Hallow's Eve," better known as Halloween, restless ghosts and spirits of the underworld stir up an unearthly ruckus of shrieking delight — only to retreat into the shadows for another year after their peace with the world is made.

Of all the traditional holidays we celebrate, none is more ominous and, at the same time, more joyful than Halloween. As children, we were rapt by lurid tales of the unknown starring Draculas, vampires, wolfmen and all sorts of wrathful demons. Instead of instilling fear, this holiday of many faces turns us into masquerading merry-makers — delighting in all the "horror" we can find.

If your brand of "haunting" takes the form of staying home, try bringing some of the night inside with a whimsical witch that's easy to brew. No mysterious potions are needed. It's easy, quick, and sure to keep the little "demons" busy around holiday time. In no time at all, a family effort will turn out a slew of friendly witches to haunt table tops, windows, doors and even "trick-or-treat" packages.

All that's needed to make a witch is an egg-shaped hosiery container, some glue, black construction paper, and a few other odds and ends.

Begin making the witch by gluing the egg halves together. Glue a plastic curtain ring to the bottom of the egg so it stands upright while you work. Twist two small pieces of pipe cleaner into loops to make hands and glue to either side of the egg — slightly below the seam of the egg. For hair, cut thin strips of black construction paper and glue over each side of the witch's head.

Make the base for the cone-shaped hat from a circle of black construction paper (approximately three inches in diameter). From black paper, cut a semi-circle, four inches across, and roll into a cone. Glue the cone to the round base of the hat. When the glue sets, glue the hat to the egg, over the strands of black hair. Pull a clump of straw from an old broom and cut into pieces about three inches long. Use a rubber band to attach the straw to the top of an eight or nine inch wooden dowel rod or Tinkertoy stick. Slip the witch's broom through the pipe cleaner hand.

Attach black paper feet to the bottom of the egg. With a black felt-tip pen, draw one of the most wicked faces you can imagine. Use various colored pens to get a variety of bewitching faces such as a glow-in-the-dark face painted with fluorescent paints. For an eerie look, drip colored candle wax down the witch's face.

Your witch is now ready to spook a Halloween party table. Or she can be hung from a hook on the front door as a festive greeting, or placed in a dimly lit window on Halloween night. Leave the halves unglued and you can put candy and treats inside for the visiting goblins. She'll be sure to say "Trick-or-Treat!" in her own special way.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Marriage Changes 'Appetite'

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this for "The Wife of a Sex Maniac." Please print it. She needs to know a few things. The woman wrote that she and her husband are in their early 60s and she has had enough sex to last her a lifetime. Her husband, however, is still very much interested in bedroom gymnastics. To keep him from going elsewhere she never refuses him and even pretends to enjoy it.

I went along with "wife" to that point — but when she said, "I am in favor of premarital sex on the basis that it's wise to learn what the other person's sex appetite is like BEFORE marriage" — wrong, wrong, wrong.

I have been married three years to a man who had an insatiable appetite for sex when we were going together. We saw each other every night for two years and at least three nights a week for 11 months before that. He was after me all the time. I was both flattered and exhausted. I also wondered how I would be able to keep up with him after marriage. Well, I didn't have to worry. Now I find myself begging him to make love to me and it's degrading.

So let this be a lesson to girls who think they have to try it out for "educational purposes." You won't learn a thing. — I Didn't Dear I.D.: You speak the truth, lady. There is something about the "forbidden" that makes it much more appealing. Why? Human nature — the excitement of risk-taking.

And it can work in reverse, too. Some married couples report that their sex life improved greatly after marriage. They became more relaxed, more comfortable with one another and their love grew deeper and more meaningful. The most erogenous zone in both male and female is located between the eyebrows and the hairline.

Weird Proposal

Dear Ann Landers: I will call him Wallace although that is not his name. We have been going together for two years. I am no child, Ann — I'm 31. Wallace is 36. I was engaged six years ago but my fiance remarried his former wife and practically left me at the church. Wallace has never been married.

We have talked seriously about a life together but he has never actually proposed — until last night. Here's how he did it: We were seated on the sofa and he took a slip of paper out of his pocket and handed it to me. I nearly fainted. It was a questionaire.

The first four of the twelve questions were as follows — just to give you an idea:

1. Do you expect to inherit any money?
2. Do you owe any large bills?
3. Do you keep your teeth in good condition or will there be a lot of dental work in the future?
4. Do you need any surgery that you've been putting off?

When I expressed surprise and became indignant he told me he was only being sensible — that his best friend got stuck for thousands of dollars because there was a lot about his fiancée that he didn't know in advance.

What do you think about this, Ann Landers? — Honolulu

Dear Hon: I think you don't need a goof like Wallace for a husband. Suggest that he run an ad and then he'll be sure to get exactly what he wants.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11985, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

For A Fashionable Fall

INVESTMENTS: You will be set for the season in these fall fashions. At left is a tartan stripe polyester-cotton shirt in red with green and yellow stripes and button-front canvas skirt of polyester-cotton. Taupe cotton corduroy blazer and skirt, at right, is coordinated with a taupe and rust stripe shirt of cotton-polyester.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — After many tests (excluding a brain scan because I was pregnant) my doctor diagnosed my equilibrium problem and dizzy spells as labyrinthitis. He gave me Antivert to help stabilize this problem and said it would come and go and I would have to learn to live with it.

The Antivert doesn't help much any more. Since they never did a brain scan on me could they be wrong in their diagnosis? Could it be something other than labyrinthitis? And what can be done to cure labyrinthitis if that's what it is? I do have a very slight case of diabetes which I know can make one dizzy. I had these spells long before I got diabetes. The dizzy spells last all day and night.

I would appreciate a reply as being dizzy is not much fun. If there is anything I can do to help this I would like to know.

DEAR READER — Your letter suggests that you have been extensively tested so I am sure your doctor's diagnosis is correct. Labyrinthitis means inflammation or irritation of the tiny canals inside your ear that respond to head position and balance. There are three such canals.

They are not the only means of monitoring your body position and balance. In fact they only measure what is happening to your head — not your feet, hands or other parts of your body. You also use nerve impulses from your skin, joints and total body to identify body position, and you get input from your eyes as well. The combination of the sensing nerves, eyes and little ear canals provide all the information your brain needs to judge position and motion.

You are a young woman, judging from your remark about pregnancy, so it is most likely the problem is with your internal ear canals or the nerve from them to the brain. In people past 50 this changes because of the higher incidence of arterial disease. Then dizziness is often secondary to disorders of circulation.

In determining if you have labyrinthitis or not it is important to define what you mean by dizziness. That covers a lot of territory, including problems related to simple fainting or near fainting. When the ear mechanism is involved it is usually accompanied with an illusion of motion.

What does that mean? It means you either have the sensation of your body moving, even if it is not, or the sensation of the environment around you moving when it is not. This simple observation goes a long way in separating your ear problems from a host of other problems that can cause so-called "dizziness."

I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-10, Dizziness and Vertigo, to give you more details on this complicated symptom. Others who want to know about these disorders can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue. Send your request to me at P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78202.

Medicines such as Antivert are commonly used to control true vertigo. It is usually contraindicated in women who may become pregnant or, during pregnancy because rat studies showed that it caused a high incidence of cleft palate in rat pups. Women in the childbearing years would be well advised to ask their doctor directly about the possible effects of any antihistamine or anti-dizziness preparation causing birth defects before taking it.

Your Birthday

Friday Oct. 28, 1977

This coming year should be a fun one. You'll be more adventurous than usual and eager to add excitement to your life. Your common sense and self-discipline will protect you from straying where you shouldn't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Sluggish allies are likely to slow down your pace a bit today. Nevertheless, once you pick up momentum you'll sweep them along at your speed. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Some of the responsibilities of others may be shifted to your shoulders today. A resentful attitude will make the tasks even tougher.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Outmoded work methods should be updated wherever possible. Be imaginative. Don't be afraid to try techniques with a unique twist.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You function best today operating independently. Assistants who are usually helpful are apt to get underfoot.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One of your co-workers could be abrasive today, and a difficult person to deal with. Subdue the urge to put her in her place.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In many ways today you're very giving. Where money is an issue, however, your generosity has definite limitations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The morning will not be without nominal bumps and bruises, but this won't dismay you. Turning losers into winners is your bag today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be prepared to stand up for your rights, especially if something owed you is long overdue. The squeaking wheel gets the oil today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Events could unravel in a manner today to put a severe strain on your staying power. Don't chuck in the towel. The last round is yours.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Calculating tactics will produce nothing of real benefit for you today. Besides, it's not your style. You wouldn't take pride in a crafty victory.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The apex is reachable today, but you're a tough customer to convince. Don't let self-doubts dilute your ambitions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be selective of which friends you ask favors of today. Some will go all-out, but one pal won't do anything without expecting more in return.

ASK THE JACOBYs

A Florida reader wants to know what is done when a small card is exposed in the deal.

The rule is that if the dealer exposes any card whatsoever in dealing it is a misdeal, but in many friendly social games this rule is only applied when the exposed card is an honor.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Old Man Z, the expert who always played the dummy in the auction bridge columns, was back for another duplicate game.

It didn't take him long to get to six hearts. He simply checked for aces with Blackwood (a convention that had not been invented in his early days) and hid the slam when his partner showed one ace.

It also didn't take him long to make the hand. He won the diamond lead in his own hand and led the queen of trumps. West covered with his king and when the jack fell from East the only loser was the ace of spades.

Why did Z play the trumps the way he did? His play would succeed if East held the singleton jack. The play of a low spade from his hand would work if West held the singleton king. Hence, each play had the same poor chance for success, yet Z led the spade queen without

Kelley Questions Sculpture For Blues Headquarters

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A $100,000 sculpture planned for the Detroit headquarters of Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield should be scrutinized by state regulators in light of spiraling hospital and insurance costs, says the attorney general. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley told Insurance Commissioner Thomas Jones in a letter Wednesday he has the authority to rule the Blues' sculpture. An unveiling is set for next month. Richard E. Whitmer, executive vice president of the Blues, responded to the attorney general's letter by inviting Kelley to the unveiling. The state's largest health insurer's work of art "requires the most careful scrutiny and justification," Kelley told Jones. Jones said he would study the Kelley opinion but knew little about the sculpture plans.

Kelley's opinion was the second in three days which went against the Blues. The attorney general ruled Monday that Jones has the authority to make rules and regulate the terms of contracts between the Blues and hospitals which participate in the firm's health plan. Another temporary defeat came for the insurer last week when a Wayne County judge granted a temporary injunction allowing a consumer advocate appointed to the Blues' board to return. Charles Chomet was ejected from the board last spring after publicly criticizing the firm's management and a hefty pay raise for Blues President John McCabe. Whitmer said Kelley's ruling contradicted one of the attorney general's own 1967 opinions. Whitmer said the attorney general "stated that Blue Cross and Blue Shield's right to construct a home office building was not subject to the insurance commissioner's approval.... The bronze sculpture, a series of figures representing a variety of human emotions, is nearly finished. The work by John Pappas of Eastern Michigan University, is scheduled to be unveiled Nov. 21 in front of the 22-story Blues building, which houses about 5,000 employees. "Every effort must be made to contain and then reduce hospital and medical care costs," Kelley told Jones.

HANDY HANDLES: John Bennett and his secretary, Diane O'Dell, display differences between his bent handles and the regular kind used on tennis rackets, hammers, and machetes. He says the handle follows the natural flow of the wrist muscle and forearm and could revolutionize sporting goods, tools, and cooking equipment. (AP Laserphoto)

Are Bent Handles Wave Of Future?

EAST PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Add a bend to the handle of a baseball bat and it no longer looks like a baseball bat. But it allows the ball player to hold his bat "in the same way he points his index finger," and the concept would revolutionize all kinds of sports, according to John Bennett, who's patented a handle with a 19-degree bend in the end.

"The 18-degree bend is the optimum," said Bennett, president of an East Peoria industrial equipment firm who discovered the principle while developing a better mop handle. The critical bend follows "the line of sight from the index finger through the heart line of the palm."

The idea "is so simple people couldn't believe it, but it works," Bennett said.

Bent handles can improve performance in just about everything but football and chess, Bennett said. "It works on ski poles, fishing poles, machetes, hockey sticks, hammers, frying pans, you name it."

By eliminating an unnatural motion of the arm, a bent racket could even eliminate tennis elbow, he said.

Bent handles will work just as effective on brooms and mops as tennis rackets, the inventor said, allowing the hurried housekeeper to clean floors with 25 per cent less effort.

Bennett, who concedes it may take time for the sports world to accept his invention, is scheduled to meet Monday with representatives from a major sporting goods manufacturer. He sent some equipment to another firm several months ago but got no response.

"I know someday someone's going to pick up that bat and hit one out, and then they'll come to me," Bennett said confidently.

Quota Dispute May Tie Up $4 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dispute over racial quotas threatens to delay $4 billion in federal-funded jobs and could have an important impact on black businessmen trying to break into the construction industry.

The dispute, now moving through the courts, also affects millions of dollars of public works projects in several states and cities which have rules to assure that a share of the work goes to businesses owned by blacks and other racial minorities.

"This is hard to explain but it's of interest to every working man," said a Justice Department official familiar with the issues.

The argument involves a $4 billion public works program approved by Congress last spring.

Congress earmarked 10 per cent of the federal money for businesses owned by racial minorities. This was designed to compensate for the past discrimination which kept blacks and other minorities out of the construction industry.

The Justice Department, which now is defending the constitutionality of the program, calls the 10 per cent requirement a proper goal. Department officials note that the 10 per cent rule can be waived if no qualified minority firms are interested in a particular project.

But the requirement angered the Associated General Contractors, a national trade association which represents about 8,000 general contractors across the country.

The association's 400-member board last month voted unanimously to challenge the restriction as an unconstitutional quota.

Association chapters in California, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Montana have brought suits in federal courts in those states. John Ellis, assistant executive director of the organization, says suits are planned in at least five other states.

Both sides agree that the case is likely to wind up in the Supreme Court. And that would mean it could take several months before a final judgment on the program's constitutionality.

Meanwhile, the government is likely to be blocked from awarding the construction money, at least in some parts of the country.

Congress had intended the program as a swift medicine for the economically depressed construction industry. The Commerce Department, which is in charge of passing out the money, was supposed to make sure all of the contracts were awarded and construction had started by the end of December.

"We're not in any way trying to get the program shut down," Ellis asserted. "We're for it, we lobbied for it."

But he conceded that the court proceedings could delay the construction projects, which include such things as sewer systems and public buildings.

"Our contention is that this is an illegal requirement," Ellis said. "It's much more than affirmative action. This is essentially a racial quota, and it means that the nonminority segment of the construction industry is precluded from competing for 10 per cent of the work."

On the other side, Justice Department lawyers note that blacks and other racial minorities make up 17 per cent of the U.S. population, yet minority-owned construction firms account for barely more than 1 per cent of gross receipts in the industry.

House Approves Tanker Limits

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tanker trucks carrying hazardous cargo would be limited to certain speeds under a bill sent to the Senate after winning House approval.

The bill was passed 80-7 Wednesday.

While the bill includes all tankers, the intent of the measure is to slow down the so-called "double-bottom" tandem tankers. It is one of several measures being considered in the legislature to deal with tanker safety problems.

Under the bill, tankers would be allowed to drive at the maximum 55 mph on freeways, but would have to drive five miles per hour below the posted speed on other roads.

If there is no posted speed, the trucks would be limited to 40 mph within city or village limits.

Rep. Ernest Nash, R-Dimon-dale, spoke against the bill, saying it would create more hazards than it would prevent.

"Motorists are already upset when they come up behind a slow-moving vehicle. And it's not the tankers that are killing people — it's automobiles," he said.

Rep. Francis Spaniola, D-Coruna, the bill's sponsor, said "the question of reducing speed limits is essential. And industry feels that they can support the lower limits."

The measure was prompted by seven tanker accidents in the Detroit area since the first of the year, killing three persons and injuring nine.

Social Security Hike Vote Near

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is heading toward passage of a bill to keep the Social Security system from going broke by drastically increasing the payroll taxes paid by American workers and their employers.

The House was to resume consideration of amendments today, with the final vote following.

In its most important decision during nine hours of debate Wednesday, the House voted 386 to 38 against immediately bringing more than six million government workers under Social Security.

Including the government workers would have reduced the tax bite needed to keep the system afloat because the additional wage earners would increase the tax revenues going into Social Security.

The House vote approved an amendment deferring for at least two years any decision on making Social Security mandatory for employees of federal, state and local governments and of nonprofit organizations.

The House Ways and Means Committee had voted to bring the workers into the system immediately.

Under the bill as amended, the maximum Social Security tax for both employees and employers would go up during the next decade from the present $965 per year to $2,982. Without the amendment, the maximum tax in 1987 would have been $250 less.

The amendment, proposed by Rep. Joseph L. Fisher, D-Va., calls for a two-year study of bringing the workers, the last remaining major groups not under Social Security, under the program.

Federal workers now have separate retirement plans and employees of state and local governments and of nonprofit organizations have the option of forming independent plans.

Fisher argued, "The consequences of extending coverage to all workers has not been adequately studied."

Backers of the Fisher amendment said it would be unfair to phase out separate pension plans on which workers have made retirement plans.

"Imagine this situation," said Rep. Herbert E. Harris, D-Va., who like Fisher represents a district containing many federal employees.

"You have been contributing to a retirement program for 15 years. You have planned your family and retirement on that basis. Then Congress tells you that there will be drastic changes in the plan," Harris said.

Opponents of the Fisher amendment cited numerous studies dating back to the 1930s recommending including government workers in Social Security. They said another study is unneeded and said the real reason for the heavy lobbying by groups of federal employees for the Fisher amendment was the opportunity they have for "double dipping."

"Double dippers" collect two government checks. For example, a person can retire from a government job and then accept a job covered by Social Security to qualify for a second pension.

Opponents of Fisher's amendment said 45 per cent of retired government employees also collect Social Security pensions. They said that a person can collect a pension of $114 per month after paying as little as $111 into Social Security during his working life.

"This is an appalling use of public funds," said Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Wis.

The House also voted to give the Social Security system the authority to borrow from the U.S. Treasury if necessary to avoid insolvency. The House rejected 221 to 186 an amendment by Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, to remove this authority from the committee-approved bill.

House Rejects Senate Tax Reform

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A decision by the Michigan House to ditch one proposal means the state's single business tax probably will have to be revamped in a House-Senate conference committee.

The House on Wednesday voted to drop the Senate version of the bill to revise the tax. The House replaced it with the House's tax reform plan. That plan already has been approved by the House and is being debated in a Senate committee.

Lawmakers say the Senate will reject the House version, forcing the issue into a joint House-Senate conference committee where a final compromise can be hammered out.

Both versions are designed to ease the tax burden on small and low-profit businesses, but there are substantial differences in the measures.

Sen. Patrick McCollough, sponsor of the Senate plan, said his bill would shift about $100 million in taxes to larger companies. Backers of the House bill say their plan would save small businesses about $64 million a year.

The House bill would tax depreciate more heavily to recoup the lost revenue. The Senate bill would reduce the business tax itself, but apply a special levy on corporate profits. That levy has drawn bitter opposition from big business.

The tax went into effect last year. It was intended to simplify the tax system and provide more jobs by giving a break to large industry. But small businesses, farmers, and professionals have complained that their taxes skyrocketed, forcing them to cut back on their payrolls or go out of business entirely.

MSU President Is Moving East

increase over last year's budget, and is not expected to emerge intact after review by budget officials at the state capitol.

Wharton replaces Ernest Bayer, who was appointed U.S. Commissioner of Education last January by President Carter. Officials at SUNY headquarters in Albany said Wharton's appointment is expected to be made final at the November meeting of the university's board of trustees.

Acting SUNY Chancellor James Kelly had been thought to be in line for the top job and was the favorite candidate of many SUNY officials. But Kelly suffered a heart attack last month that may have taken him out of the running. He will remain on for now as executive vice chancellor, SUNY officials said, a post he held while Bayer was chancellor.

A graduate of Harvard, Johns Hopkins and the University of Chicago, Wharton's academic specialty is in economics and agricultural development in Third World countries.

SUNY has four medical schools, 30 community colleges, four major university centers, 14 liberal arts colleges and a variety of specialized schools — including a college at Cornell specializing in agriculture, as does Michigan State.

Wharton also will face the delicate problem of the City University of New York, the nation's second largest university system, which New York City can no longer fully support. SUNY and CUNY trustees have been involved in talks that could lead to a merger, although SUNY officials generally have not favored a state takeover.

Wharton will be the first chancellor to occupy SUNY's new headquarters, the restored Delaware and Hudson Railway building along the Hudson River at the bottom of Capitol Hill in Albany.

Deer Feeders Found Guilty

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal judge says the president of the Alger County Sportsman's Club and one of its members fed deer illegally. U.S. District Judge Wendell Miles found two Munising residents guilty Wednesday. Convicted were Charles Wilderspin, the club's president, and John Stelmazek, a club member. They were charged with illegal feeding last March in Alger County's Beaver Basin. The area is federal property. Wilderspin and Stelmazek were freed on their own recognition pending sentencing investigation. The maximum penalty is six months in jail and a $500 fine. The feeding program was part of a prolonged dispute involving the Basin's deer herd. State officials wanted a special hunting season to thin the herd. They claimed the basin had too many deer. Area residents disagreed and took the state to court. A circuit court judge banned the special hunt and the feeding program began, using money provided by Wilderspin's club.

Gasoline Prices Rise

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the first time in a month, gasoline prices are up slightly in the state, the Automobile Club of Michigan reports. In its weekly survey of some 300 major brand stations along main highways, the auto club said Wednesday that regular gasoline averaged 65.7 cents a gallon, 2 cent more than last week. The range stretched from 58.8 cents to 76.8 cents. Unleaded gasoline averaged 68.5 cents a gallon, down 1 cent from a week ago. Prices ranged from 58.8 cents to 78.8 cents.

They Still Don't Have Shots

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly one-fourth of the Detroit school children turned away from classes this week because of failure to get their shots remain without immunization, school officials say. Of nearly 12,000 youngsters whose parents were sent warnings to get their children immunized, school records showed 2,964 remained without shots by the close of the school day Wednesday. Only four schools in the district reported 100 per cent compliance with the inoculation order, issued by school officials for the second year in an effort to stem the spread of common childhood diseases. Free shot clinics continue today at local hospitals.

Tanker Ban Produces Suit

DETROIT (AP) — As expected, oil companies are suing to overturn a ban on doublebottom tank trucks using the streets of Dearborn. Mobil Oil Co. and Standard Oil Co. of Indiana asked Wayne County Circuit Court Judge John O'Hair to bar enforcement of the Dearborn ordinance, scheduled to take effect today. Mobil said the ordinance would curtail its gasoline deliveries by 20 per cent or 15,000 gallons a day; making it impossible to meet contracts with dealers. Mobil has a truck terminal in Dearborn and Standard said 65 per cent of its deliveries involved at least some travel over Dearborn streets. Standard terminals are in River Rouge and Taylor.

Pact Ratified At NMU

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Faculty members at Northern Michigan University have ratified a new three-year contract. The vote of the university chapter of the American Association of University Professors was 119-73 in favor of the pact, a spokesman said. He said the agreement provides raises of 6.25 percent this year, 9.24 percent next year and 10.24 percent the year after that, on the average, to bring the salary of the average faculty member at the end of three years to about $20,000. University trustees still must approve the agreement. The university has about 300 faculty members. Not all are members of the AAUP, but almost all AAUP members took part in the voting Monday.

Unconstitutional, Court Says

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Language in Michigan's no-fault auto insurance law which requires that worker's compensation payments be deducted from auto insurance benefits was ruled unconstitutional by the state Court of Appeals. The court said discrimination against drivers who receive worker's compensation after their injury is valid as an attempt to lower insurance premiums by reducing claims. But, it said, the act does not correctly allocate the savings in insurance premiums. That means working drivers must purchase insurance under which they cannot recover benefits while other drivers enjoy lower premiums for insurance on which they can recover benefits, it said. That, the court said, violates the equal protection provisions of the federal and state constitutions.

Regulation Bills In House

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A package of bills stemming from a 1976 House committee investigation of Michigan's utility regulation system has been introduced into the House. The measures were sponsored by Reps. H. Lynn Tondahl, D-East Lansing, and Francis Spaniola, D-Corunna. One bill would eliminate the automatic fuel adjustment clause for residential electric users. The clause allows utilities to pass on to customers all fuel cost increases without notice or hearing, the lawmakers said. Other bills introduced this week would prohibit advertising and public relations from being included in service costs, and to require the Public Service Commission to review utility management.

Ammann said.

The vaccine awaiting FDA sanction is a refinement of one introduced in the 1940s and was produced by Merck, Sharpe and Dime, he said. It acts against 14 different types of the pneumococcal organism which account for some 90-95 per cent of the infections, he said.

Ammann said he expected the FDA's approval by December and thereafter the vaccine would be available for the three groups of patients.

Only a small group of patients could be tested, Ammann said, because in 1974 a limited amount of experimental vaccine was made available to UCSF, prepared by the Eli Lilly Co. under contract to the National Institute of Health.

In a group of 106 young sickle cell patients not immunized, eight contracted pneumococcal infection, the study reported, and two died of it, despite early hospitalization and treatment.

Sickle cell is a disease of the blood cells in which a stroke in every 500 black babies, doctors said. An estimated 2 per cent of those with sickle cell die from pneumonia before they reach age 10.

The disease affects the spleen, an organ which traps bacteria, such as the pneumococcus.

The vaccine help patients develop their own antibodies against the pneumococcus and guards against the infection, doctors said.

Ammann said testing of the vaccine for normal children is continuing. He predicted that within three to four years it might be available to all children between the ages of nine months and four years as a preventive measure.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Short-Change Artist Sought

St. Joseph police said Wednesday they are investigating an alleged short-change scheme blamed for a $150 shortage in receipts reported by a Peoples State Bank teller.

Patrolman James Reeves Jr., said Robin Kay Ambler, 26, told police she believed the shortage stemmed from a transaction with a woman who came to her station in the lobby of the bank's South State Street office at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday requesting rolled coins in exchange for a $100 bill.

Reeves reported the teller told him the shortage apparently occurred in the confusion created when the woman first asked for $10 in rolled coins, presented a $100 bill and changed her mind after the transaction had been completed.

Reeves said police were seeking a woman about 5 feet 7 inches tall, described as black with loosely curled shoulder-length hair for questioning in connection with the report.

Robin Ambler, who lives at Box 296, 604 W. John Beers Road, Lincoln Township, has been a teller at the bank for six months, Reeves reported.

terial classes in Lansing.

"He was angry," Christy said about her father. "He was mad because we were having TV dinners. My mother was very calm trying to talk some sense, trying to get him to calm down."

Hughes, who then fell asleep in his chair while her mother finished dinner, later ordered the children outside, she said. Not long after that Mrs. Hughes ran from the house, Christy said, screaming for the children to call police because her ex-husband was beating her.

Once the police were gone, Christy said, the fighting erupted again. This time Hughes ripped up his wife's school books and ordered her to burn them, she remembered.

When Hughes fell asleep again in a bedroom, Mrs. Hughes ordered the children to put on their coats and shoes and bundled them into the car. Her mother then returned to the house for a few minutes and came running back to the car, Christy recounted.

"She was crying real bad, and screaming," Christy said. "She was saying, 'Oh, my God' and she was shaking real bad. She kept looking back — out the back window and saying, 'I didn't mean to do it. Oh, my God.'"

"I asked her where we were going — to grandma's — to the police? She said to the police."

The young girl testified that the earliest fighting she could remember was almost five years ago and included numerous threats against her mother's life, ripping the telephone out of the wall several times and taking a sledge hammer to a leaking toilet.

Martin Palus, prosecuting attorney in the case, has said he will attempt to prove that the slaying was not prompted by abuse, but by Mrs. Hughes' relationship with another man.

Stockman Says Congress Too Busy To Work Well

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

"We can't make credible decisions in many cases," Stockman said of Congress as a whole. "We've allowed the political machinery to be taken over by permanent free-loaders and professional do-gooders."

He spoke on pending energy and tax proposals but was most critical of Congress itself. His comments came during a dinner meeting hosted by the Berrien Bar Association at the St. Joe Kickers Club at Arden.

Attorney Elden W. Butzbaugh Jr., program chairman, said Stockman returned to Berrien County from Washington at his (Stockman's) own expense.

Stockman urged more public participation in government, telling the attorneys that "unless there is, special interest groups will dominate Congress."

The congressman said part of the "decision overload" was caused by too many committees in Congress and too many issues to come before the body for votes. He noted there are more than 180 committees, which he suggested could be trimmed to 20 to allow representatives to become more knowledgeable in the areas in which they are working "and know what's going on."

Stockman said a big problem was that his day was "broken down into 20 minute chunks" by attending a committee meeting, then a vote on the House floor, another committee meeting, and more votes. But he claimed committee and subcommittee chairmen are reluctant to do away with so many committees because they would lose much of their power.

He said it is not unusual to have three members at a committee meeting, which makes it easier for a committee chairman to get out the legislation he wants.

Stockman said there are presently two major areas of Congressional action — energy and taxes. "We have made very little progress in this Congress in dealing with the true energy problem we have," he charged.

He said both the House and Senate have passed bills dealing with energy, and the bills have now gone to conference in an attempt to resolve them. But he predicted the result would be "a classic compromise — no new produc-

Stockman contended. He claimed they are using the energy problem "as an excuse for more regulations and bigger and bigger government."

Stockman's discussion of taxes centered primarily on a proposed increase in Social Security taxes.

He said the Social Security financing bill would add a tax increase "of a very large magnitude" but also predicted it would result in "a decline in the rate of economic growth."

"We're billions of dollars a year short in Social Security revenue," he said, "and it would be economic suicide to try and solve the problem by increasing the tax rates even further."

He felt an answer to the Social Security dilemma is "to increase economic growth by lowering taxes, not raising them." He also cited a need to

"slash some of our wasteful expenditures and use the revenue to temporarily finance the deficit in the Social Security fund" until economic growth has been stimulated to a point where subsidies are not needed.

"Otherwise," he claimed, "it's a self-defeating spiral."

GM's Earnings Soar; Chrysler Reports Big Drop

By MARTY HAIR
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Third quarter earnings at auto industry giant General Motors Corp. hit a record $402 million or $1.40 a share, up 1.3 per cent over the same period last year.

The picture wasn't so bright at Chrysler Corp., however, as officials told shareholders Wednesday that troubled overseas operations and rising costs contributed in a 50 per cent drop in its profits for the quarter from its 1976 third-quarter rate.

Chrysler said its earnings were $30.4 million or 51 cents a share, compared to $61.2 million or $1.91 per share in the quarter last year.

The nation's third-largest carmaker said it lost $14 million on its operations outside North America, or $10.7 million with a tax credit, between June 30 and Sept. 30.

Ford Motor Co. was expected to release its quarterly earnings today, and American Motors Corp. earnings figures were expected soon.

GM said its unit and dollar sales set records from July through September. But they fell far short of the second quarter, when GM became the first U.S. industrial firm to have profits of more than $1 billion for a three-month period.

GM's earnings figure for the first nine months of this year was $2.4 billion or $6.36 a share, up 14 per cent from the $2.1 billion or $7.31 a share for the period last year. In the 1976 third quarter, Chrysler had net profits of $61.2 million or $1.91 per share.

Chrysler's profit margin was off four-tenths of a per cent this quarter to 3.5 per cent, and down two-tenths of a per cent to 6 per cent for the first nine months of the year.

The higher income this quarter "primarily reflects higher sales volume and improved product mix from the prior year's levels," said GM Chairman Thomas Murphy and President Elliott Estes in their report to stockholders.

For the three months, worldwide car and truck sales for the quarter were 1.8 million, up 12,000 from the third quarter last year. In dollars, the hike was nearly $1.3 billion, to $11.4 billion.

"The third quarter record results were achieved despite higher production start-up costs of our new 1978 mid-size cars and strike-and flood-related production losses and associated inefficiencies," the GM chiefs said. "These combined factors prevented net income from increasing in line with dollar sales, resulting in a decline in profit margin."

Dividends paid on common stock in the third quarter were 15 cents per share, the same as in the third quarter of 1976.

For the year to date, GM worldwide sales were 6.7 million, up 408,000 from the nine months last year, on sales of $30.9 billion, compared to $24.1 billion in the 1976 period.

Chrysler had an income tax credit, allowed to offset previous losses, of $3.3 million, or 5 cents a share in the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared with a credit of $15 million or 25 cents a share in the same quarter last year.

For the nine months, Chrysler reported it earned $194.2 million or $3.06 a share. That compared with $243.4 million or $4.04 a share in the first three quarters of 1976. The figures excluded income tax credits of $28.7 million or 47 cents a share this year and $90 million or $1.46 a share last year.

Wall Street analysts predicted Chrysler would show a third-quarter profit of about $50 million.

Chrysler's earnings statement accompanying the report showed an 8 per cent increase for the quarter in overall costs and a 10 per cent increase in costs for the nine months.

Overseas, Chrysler's earning rate was down substantially this quarter compared to last year's. Earnings for the year to date were $1 billion before an income tax credit, compared to $33 million before a credit last year.

Chrysler said its subsidiaries in Argentina, Peru, Brazil, Venezuela and Australia lost money for the nine months, "reflecting generally poor economic conditions, with a high rate of inflation and uncovered costs in some countries."

Chrysler U.K., its British subsidiary, had adjusted operating losses during the first nine months of $16.3 million. The actual loss was $32.6 million; but the lower number takes into account an agreement between Chrysler and the British government. Under that, the automaker will receive a government grant covering half of any operating losses this year up to a maximum of 10 million pounds (about $17.5 million at current exchange rates), payable at the end of the year.

The statement to stockholders reported worldwide dollar sales in the third quarter of $4 billion from 728,995 cars and trucks, versus $3.8 billion last year from 740,263 last year.

Chrysler's share of the domestic auto market through Oct. 26 of this year was 13.7 per cent against 15.4 per cent in the comparable period last year. GM during the same time rose from 55.1 per cent to 56.4 per cent.

Chrysler, which has traditionally been a big-car company, has shifted its thinking to midsize and smaller cars. It has dropped most of its large models and will introduce two domestically built subcompacts, the Dodge Omni and Plymouth Horizon, this winter. Retooling plants for the two new small cars was expected to

But GM, with its downsized big and intermediate cars, and Ford have continued to gain in market share so far this year, while Chrysler and AMC have declined. Ford holds 27.8 per cent of the domestic market in the latest figures released Tuesday.

For the year so far, Chrysler's U.S. sales are down nearly 5 per cent from the period in 1976. Sales this year of 1,016,494 through Oct. 26 compared with 1,072,170 for the same time in 1976.

GM's year-to-date sales through mid-October stand at 4,182,862, up nearly 10 per cent from the rate last year.

Chrysler included in its report a prediction that 1978 overall vehicle sales in the United States would be about 15 million, with the market continuing to grow at a healthy clip. GM renewed its forecast of a record 15.5 million units, or 11 1/2 million cars and 3 1/2 million trucks.

Andrews Fall Signup A Record At 2,837

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Andrews University's fall quarter enrollment here totals 2,837, according to Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, university president. This is the highest enrollment in Andrews' history, topping the 1976 figure by seven, he said. The students, who come from 45 states and 79 foreign countries, are broken down by schools as follows: college of arts and sciences, 1,828; school of graduate studies, 390; theological seminary, 378; college of technology, 234. Nine students are unclassified.

The total for all schools includes 1,571 male students and 1,266 females. The number of students attending Andrews has increased 38 percent since fall quarter 1972, according to Dr. Robert Moun, director of institutional research.

'Faults' Holding No-Fault Back

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

No-fault auto insurance, once promoted as a means of cutting costs for consumers, has failed to stem the tide of soaring premiums, but authorities say it has succeeded in its main goal of getting benefits into the hands of accident victims more quickly.

"We consider it a smashing success," said William Sheppard, Pennsylvania insurance commissioner, when asked about his state's no-fault program which took effect July 19, 1975.

"It has accomplished everything we said it would accomplish," said Jack Davies, a Minnesota state senator who sponsored a no-fault plan that began Jan. 1, 1975.

At the same time, however, the drive for no-fault at the state level has stalled. Several states which passed no-fault laws early in the 1970s have been forced to make major changes.

President Carter has endorsed the concept of a federal no-fault bill, but the measures have not gotten beyond the hearing stage and no action is expected before 1978.

Premiums, meanwhile, are going up. And up. They increased almost 50 per cent from August 1975 to August 1977.

If no-fault is working so well, why haven't more states passed analyst for the Colorado Insurance Division, said no-fault "has reallocated funds, putting the funds in the hands of the injured rather than in the hands of the attorneys handling court cases. It hasn't really altered the cost to the insuring company."

One problem with existing no-fault programs, say officials, is that it is still too easy to sue. The laws generally allow a person to go to court after medical expenses reach a certain threshold. In nine states, the threshold is $750 or less. In New Jersey, it is only $200.

"I would guess that with continued inflation we would have to look at ... the threshold," said a spokesman for the Insurance Department in North Dakota, where a victim with medical expenses exceeding $1,000 is allowed to sue.

To correct the problem, authorities are considering raising the dollar threshold or eliminating it completely as New York and Florida have done recently and replacing it with a requirement that generally prohibits suits unless the accident results in death or serious injury.

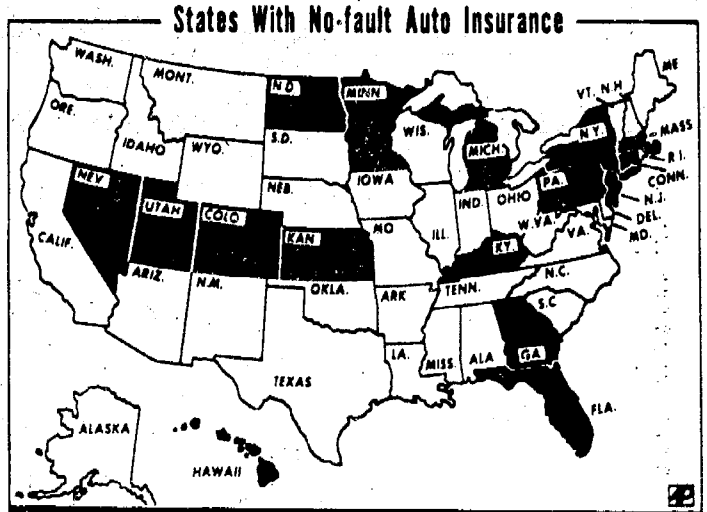

(Michigan is the only other state without a dollar threshold; it is one of only three states — New Jersey and Pennsylvania are the others — which puts no ceiling on the amount of medical expenses that can be collected. Legislation under consideration in Pennsylvania would limit basic medical coverage to $100,000, with companies required to offer a maximum of $250,000 to customers who wanted the extra protection. The proposed federal legislation would allow states to put a limit of $250,000 on benefits for medical expenses and would permit individual suits only in case of death or serious injury.)

Fault or no-fault, there may be some relief from rising costs. The frequency of claims — a key factor in determining rates — has declined, although no one is sure why.

Auto insurance companies, many of which lost money during several periods in 1976, have reported enormous profits. They have not filed for rate reductions, but say the increased earnings may help offset future increases.

"We don't anticipate nearly the rapid rise in rates" of the past two or three years, said a spokesman for State Farm.

NO-FAULT STATES: The dark-colored states in this map have some form of no-fault automobile insurance. (AP Wirephoto)

First Of Two Articles

EDITOR'S NOTE: Congress is considering a bill to require every state to implement no-fault auto insurance meeting minimum federal standards. Sixteen states already have some sort of no-fault program. But no-fault is not without faults. Here, in the first of a two-part series on auto insurance, is a look at how it's working.

pard, Pennsylvania insurance commissioner, when asked about his state's no-fault program which took effect July 19, 1975.

"It has accomplished everything we said it would accomplish," said Jack Davies, a Minnesota state senator who sponsored a no-fault plan that began Jan. 1, 1975.

At the same time, however, the drive for no-fault at the state level has stalled. Several states which passed no-fault laws early in the 1970s have been forced to make major changes.

President Carter has endorsed the concept of a federal no-fault bill, but the measures have not gotten beyond the hearing stage and no action is expected before 1978.

Premiums, meanwhile, are going up. And up. They increased almost 50 per cent from August 1975 to August 1977.

If no-fault is working so well, why haven't more states passed

Massachusetts became the first state in the nation to enact a no-fault law. The plan took effect Jan. 1, 1971. Since then, 15 other states have passed no-fault laws. They are: Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania and Utah. The most recent law — North Dakota's — took effect on Jan. 1, 1976.

(Eight other states passed laws that were described as no-fault, but they place no limitation on the right of an accident victim to sue and cannot really be counted as part of the no-fault system.)

One reason for the problems with no-fault is a lack of understanding about what it can and cannot do. A recent Gallup poll showed 69 per cent of the public does not understand how no-fault works.

No-fault supporters themselves may be partly to blame for the confusion. Ron Arnold of State Farm Insurance Cos., the nation's biggest auto insurer, said that politicians, eager to get support for the concept, appealed to people's pocketbooks. They promised — mistakenly — that no-fault would lower premiums and, in some cases, ordered rate decreases when no-fault went into effect.

There are several reasons for the lack of cost saving. No-fault generally applies only to bodily injury. Property damage stays under the old system — the insurance company of the motorist at fault has to pay. And property damage, according to State Farm, accounts for 60 cents of every dollar you pay in premiums on a nationwide basis.

James Hunt, director of the State Rating Bureau in Massachusetts, said bodily injury rates dropped 45 per cent from 1970 to 1976. Without no-fault, he said, they would have increased 63 per cent.

"The real proof of our success with no-fault is the steady reduction in bodily injury insurance rates," said Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who, as a legislator, was a major sponsor of the state's no-fault law. "Unfortunately, the rate reductions for bodily injury have been counter-balanced by rates for other coverages which have gone up about as fast as bodily injury rates have come down."

Other officials said the rate increases would have been even worse without no-fault. Dr. James C. Nicholas, staff director of an ad hoc Automobile Insurance Commission in Florida, said that the cost of commercial vehicle insurance — which remained under the conventional system — has risen 130 per cent since 1971. Auto insurance, under no-fault, has risen 100 per cent in the same period.

State Farm said a survey showed that the average increase in automobile insurance rates in the 16 no-fault states from Dec. 31, 1970 through the end of last year was 24.6 per cent, compared to a nationwide average boost of 27.7 per cent.

Authorities also say that while no-fault has eliminated some of the legal costs surrounding accidents, the savings has been offset by the fact that more people are getting benefits since they are automatically paid by their own companies.

A Department of Transportation study showed that in Connecticut, an estimated 25 per cent more accident victims recover economic losses under no-fault than under the traditional system.

"With this no-fault system, people no longer have to worry about begging themselves to pay for their injuries," said Milton Friedman, counsel to the New York State Insurance Department. "And people in single-car accidents — who never got anything under the old law — are also being compensated."

Yessiree, Crime IS A Problem

DETROIT (AP) — Campaign undersatement of the week, from Clyde Cleveland, running for re-election to the Detroit City Council. After two pistol-wielding men robbed a campaign worker of $30 from her purse and took a radio and $30 from petty cash in his campaign office on Tuesday, Cleveland said, "Crime is certainly a problem. There's no doubt about it."

Youth, 17, Could Get Life

DETROIT (AP) — A 17-year-old youth acquitted in last year's Cobo Hall gang rape case could be sentenced to life imprisonment following his conviction in the robbery of a Detroit auto worker and a sexual assault on his wife.

A Detroit Recorder's Court jury Tuesday convicted Gerald Bennett, 17, on charges of armed robbery, third degree criminal sexual conduct and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

Bennett was acquitted after his trial last year in an alleged rape outside Cobo Hall at the conclusion of a rock concert in the summer of 1976. The alleged rape occurred during an evening of terror as Detroit youth gangs robbed and assaulted concert-goers. Detroit police started cracking down on youth gangs following the trouble.

This week, Bennett was convicted in a case involving a 29-year-old auto worker who said he was robbed July 20 by two men with guns who forced him into his home.

Once inside, the two men were joined by three others who ransacked the house and assaulted his 27-year-old wife. They tied up the couple and stole their car.

Police arrested Bennett and Dan Fuqua, 17, five days later as the pair approached the car. Fuqua was convicted of the same charges as Bennett.

A third defendant, Keith Miles, 18, was convicted of armed robbery and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

FOUR GENERATIONS ON LAKE MICHIGAN

Family Fishing Tradition In Peril Now

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer
NORTHBOROUGH, Mich. (AP) — Four generations of Carlsons and three of Langs have earned livings harvesting Lake Michigan's fish. But their proud family traditions are in peril.

Bill Carlson Jr. and Ross Lang use federally financed experiments to help them keep fishing. Carlson has branched into real estate and retail fish stores. His newest store won't even rely on fish from the Great Lakes, Carlson says.

"The plights of Carlson and Lang may typify Michigan's few surviving commercial fishermen."

There is a problem with many causes topped by state regulations and chemical contamination.

Carlson, 34, is managing director of the Michigan Fish Producers, a commercial fishing industry group. He said the organization has about 100 members and employs almost 1,000 persons. In Michigan, only about 145 licensed commercial fishermen remain, he estimated.

"They've been forced out. They haven't quit. They saw what was coming," Lang said when asked why so many commercial fishermen left the business. Carlson contended most of those leaving were "an old guard. They found it easier to quit."

Carlson, Lang and Terry Buckler, another fishing veteran from their hometown of Leland, formed the Leland Fish Co. to experiment with a purse seine, a net common on the Atlantic but never before tried on the Great Lakes.

Lang is captain of the Argo, the 43-foot vessel carrying the seine. Buckler crews on the Argo while Carlson stays ashore as "more of a troubleshooter than the fisherman I'd like to be. I've got to do that to make a living."

Meanwhile, Lang's old gill netting boat is leased to an Upper Peninsula fisherman lucky enough to obtain a state license but Lang still runs his trap nets near Leland.

Carlson too has a gill netting boat and a five-year experimental license allowing him to take 37,000 pounds of chub annually.

He estimated his catch could be 200,000 pounds if that was legal.

The purse seine venture, partially financed through $28,000 in federal grants, is strictly experimental. It began May 31 and Lang said has netted about 40,000 pounds of whitefish.

The net, which covers a 300-foot circle of lake bottom before purse lines are used to pull it closed, harvested 14,000 pounds of fish in 1½ days off Grand Haven this summer.

But that success occurred before the water warmed and the fish sought greater depth. Lang said whitefish avoid water warmer than 54 degrees and the net cannot reach below 110 feet.

Finding fish for the net is the biggest problem now.

One sparkling day last week, the Argo chugged out of Northport to fish Grand Traverse Bay but returned more than eight hours later with empty holds. Six times her big net was lowered fruitlessly.

The catch that day was seven lake trout, five tiny Coho salmon, two burbot and freshwater cod, a Coho fishing rig festooned with gear, a small tree trunk, seine sticks and several rocks. All the fish went back into the lake alive since the Argo has no license to catch them.

Lang noted the purse seine catches "everything that can't swim through the mesh." He said gill nets, which the state banned from general use as too indiscriminate in what they caught, trapped only about 5 percent of an area's fish "although the DNR (state Department of Natural Resources) will tell you different."

The Argo's crew of five is paid only when catches are sold. Half the money goes to the boat's owners with the rest divided among her crew.

But even those returns are uncertain. Whitefish this year have ranged from 50 cents per pound to about $1.15.

Lang took the day's failures without any visible show of emotion. Carlson said the previous day netted almost 1,000 pounds of whitefish but empty holds are becoming common as the weather cools.

The Argo will be barred from fishing during November while the fish spawn. But Carlson and Lang want her back on Grand Traverse Bay in December until she docks her or her quota of 90,000 pounds from the bay is filled.

Argo is the only vessel licensed to take whitefish com-mercially on Lake Michigan, south of Charlevoix, where two others are based. Even so, she has filled less than one-third of her 150,000-pound overall quota from lake and bay.

"It's a nice way to make a living," Lang insisted when asked why he clings to the family tradition. But then he added, "It used to be hard enough when you just had to battle the weather and the fish but now there's so many restrictions, it puts a burden on you."

Carlson insisted, "It becomes a tradition. It takes more than one generation to make a fisherman."

But he was pessimistic about commercial fishing's future.

"The main battle now is the degradation of the environment and the poisoning of our lakes. That's probably what's going to beat us in the end because they're not doing enough to stop it."

Carlson blamed contamination and government regulation for putting him out of the fishing business six times in the past decade.

But he insisted his son has a chance to follow family tradition. "That's what I'll fight for — the opportunity for him to be one if he wants."

But when asked if he wants his son to be a commercial fisherman, he replied, "I just can't imagine that happening."

EMPTY NET: Crew of 43-foot commercial fishing boat, Argo, retrieve experimental fishing net on Grand Traverse Bay after nearly nine hours of fishing without catching anything. They are only commercial fishermen licensed to seek whitefish in Lake Michigan, south of Charlevoix and are using an experimental purse seine like salt water fishing boats. (AP Wirephoto)

FIGHTING FISHERMAN: Bill Carlson stands outside his fish store in Leland, Mich., where he operates two fishing boats on experimental licenses. Carlson who has been put out of business six times in last ten years for various reasons is fourth generation fisherman but has recently diversified his business into charter boat operations and real estate. ### Citizens Group Asks Probe

GREENLAND, Mich. (AP) — A citizens group, headed by an official who was recalled in an August election for alleged misconduct in office, has asked for a grand jury probe of the election. In its request to Michigan Atty. General Frank Kelley, the Citizens Committee for Better Government said there was reason to believe that some public officials and private citizens in the Greenland Township and Ontonagon County governments "are now involved in corrupt practices" which state officials "are aiding and condoning."

The request for a grand jury probe did not refer to individuals by name. The request also says that an election in which Greenland Township trustees Raymond Hardy and Melvin Pertunen were recalled "is but one area of wrongdoing." Hardy, is chairman of the citizens group.

Food Chain Introduces Cheaper 'No Name' Line

CHICAGO (AP) — A Midwestern food chain says it can save shoppers 10 to 35 per cent over nationally advertised food and household basics.

Jewel Food Stores on Wednesday introduced a no-name line of goods for 88 products ranging from shortening to corn flakes that attempts "to peel away all the frills."

Jane Armstrong, vice president of consumer affairs for the city's largest food chain, said this means one-sized packaging stripped to its basics, no advertising and standard—lower quality—grades instead of fancy or extra fancy.

In addition, she said, the product line will have no name, just olive green and black labels. Much of the savings, she said, will come from less expensive packaging.

"After an introductory advertising program, we are not going to be promoting the product. We are not offering variety," she said.

"For instance, we're removing the perfume from the bathroom tissue and it will be only one-ply instead of two, offered only in white. The canned peaches are sliced, in a light syrup as opposed to an extra heavy syrup in extra fancy brands.

"Instead of using top-grade, full grain rice, our rice has about 50 per cent broken kernels in it, good for stuffed peppers or whatever," Miss Armstrong said.

Fruit and vegetables are graded by government standards based on ripeness, blemishes, bruising and other factors. Hence, a lighter green pea and a lighter orange-colored peach may mean a less ripe and less tasty product.

Jewel has been market-testing the no-name brands since January and it says it has gotten a "generally, quite favorable" response.

"The food is all, wholesome and nutritionally comparable to similar national and other private brands," Miss Armstrong said. "We have kept wholesomeness and value as opposed to being that concerned about the appearance of the product."

The no-name brand of soda pop sells for 15 cents for a 12 ounce can with the difference being lack of a pop top.

A can of 16.75-ounce peas will sell for 19 cents and four rolls of the bathroom tissue will go for 58 cents.

Fifty-three stores in the Chicago area, four in Rockford and 14 in Milwaukee will begin marketing the goods.

Abortion Debate Still Heated

By ROB WILSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A House committee considering whether to cut off state funds for abortions says it should take action on the issue next week. But lawmakers remain sharply divided on the subject.

Committee members, who listened to hours of heated testimony on abortion became heated themselves on Wednesday as they finished listening to public testimony on a bill to stop the use of state Medicaid funds for abortions.

Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing, said he would vote for the measure only if it was included in a package providing for the teaching of birth control in sex education classes and allowing minors to use contraceptives without parental consent.

"I will not tie-bar these bills," Rep. Rosetta Ferguson said angrily. "I will not allow it."

Mrs. Ferguson heads the Social Services and Youth Committee which is studying the issue.

Hollister said public testimony had left the committee "boxed in" and that alternatives to abortion had to be found.

"We all feel that abortion is the last alternative, and it is a horrible alternative. But we have to look at those other alternatives," he said.

Hollister's views were supported by Rep. John Mowat, R-Adrian.

"You can eliminate the need for abortions through the alternatives, but what we're seeing is a closed door," he said.

The lawmakers made the statements after hearing testimony by several church leaders. The clergymen testified against the abortion bill, and also said they opposed measures that would provide for the teaching of birth control in sex education classes and contraceptives for minors.

ways were found to cut down on unwanted pregnancies, he would "get hardnosed on this issue if you're going to get hardnosed. We have to be realistic about this."

He added that "the question is not the merits of abortion, but whether the poor have the same rights as the affluent to have an abortion."

Mrs. Ferguson disagreed. "People are just using this 'poor people' argument as a way to kill human beings. I grew up in the ghetto, and I know that poor women, black women, will go to their doctors when they have a problem just like white women go to their doctors," she said.

'Redlining' Ban Faces Vote Today

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation outlawing discriminatory redlining in mortgage loans is slated for a final vote today in the state Senate, with passage expected.

The bill, which already has cleared the House, is designed to combat the decline of older neighborhoods. It would have to return to the House for agreement in minor changes.

The bill outlaws redlining, the practice of denying mortgages in certain neighborhoods or giving less favorable loan terms because of the area's racial makeup or age of the homes.

The measure is a product of a state task force and various citizens' groups.

The bill also would require lending institutions to disclose information in an attempt to reveal illegal practices. Under the bill, lenders would have to disclose where loans are made, their number and the amount of the loans.

Brewster Chair Plot Thickens

BRENTWOOD, N.H. (AP) — The wife of a respected New England antiques dealer says a report that her husband unknowingly sold a fake 17th Century chair to the Henry Ford Museum could ruin his reputation.

Dealer Roger Bacon has avoided comment on reports of the alleged fake Great Brewster Chair, but his wife told a Dover, N.H., newspaper, Foster's Democrat, "This whole episode puts my husband in a rather uncomfortable position. All his life, he does everything honorable and is the most respected of dealers and then this hits the fan."

Armond LaMontagne of North Scituate, R.I., claimed recently he made the chair during the winter of 1969-70 because of his feelings toward museums and some antiques dealers.

"Those people think they're infallible, you know," he said.

Mrs. Bacon said the description of the chair given by LaMontagne is different from that of the chair her husband sold to the museum in Dearborn, Mich. She declined to say what the differences were.

Mrs. Bacon said her husband heard rumors several years ago that the chair, which he sold the museum for $8,000, was fake. She said he called the museum and offered to reexamine it.

"But the museum people told us they already had re-examined it and were satisfied it was real," she said.

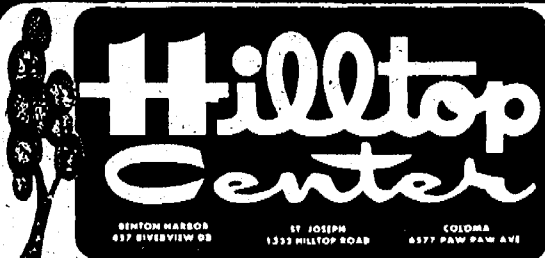

The museum announced last week that it now considers the chair a reproduction.

If the chair is real, it would be one of only a few of Great Brewster Chairs in existence. They were built during the Pilgrim era of the mid-and late 1600s for church elders, and few were made because most people sat on stools. Two known surviving chairs are in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

As a dealer of rare — and very high-priced — antiques, Bacon's most precious sales asset is his reputation, his wife said. Mrs. Bacon said her husband may sue LaMontagne because of the publicity.

LaMontagne said, however, he did not misrepresent anything. He made the chair and left it where he knew antiques dealers would find it, he said, and it passed through a few dealers and Bacon bought it and sold it to the Ford Museum.

That alone clears her husband, Mrs. Bacon said. She said he bought the chair himself in February 1970, at about the time LaMontagne claims he was building it.

DETROIT (AP) — With an eye on federal regulators, Ford Motor Co. says it is using graphite fibers in an experimental car that will weigh 1,250 pounds less than the same car built with conventional materials.

Lee Iacocca, Ford president, said Wednesday the 1979 prototype will have as many graphite fibers as possible in its body, chassis and power train. The experimental car now being built will weigh about 2,750 pounds, compared to a 4,000-pound weight if regular materials were used, he said.

"This project is a costly one," Iacocca added. "But we're willing to pay the price because we believe the success of the experiment could create important new options in choosing materials for our vehicles."

Fibers of graphite, the material with which a pencil wires, are used in the aerospace industry to give added strength to materials in which they are embedded, much as steel rods are used to reinforce concrete.

Iacocca spoke in Chicago to members of the American Society for Metals. Ford released the text of his remarks in Detroit.

Graphite-strengthened materials have been substituted for steel in a 1977 Ford Granada production car for the driveshafis, door and hood. Iacocca said the 1978 prototype will have as many graphite parts as possible.

Ford expects the six-passenger car with a 2.8-liter (171-cubic inch) V-6 engine will get at least 23 miles per gallon of gasoline, which Iacocca said was six mpg better than the regular production model car with the V-8 engine.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Aerospace's odd couple, the space shuttle Enterprise and its companion Boeing 747, have made their last test appearance together. Next stop: outer space.

The Enterprise, launched from the back of its jumbo carrier for the fifth and final time Wednesday, made a quick, steep swoop to a bumpy but safe landing.

Britain's Prince Charles, a former Royal Navy flier who had piloted a simulated shuttle earlier this week, was among those at the landing site who sighed with relief when the craft finally settled on the runway.

Fred Haise and Gordon Fullerton were in the cockpit for the one minute, 35-second flight, the shortest and steepest of the shuttle's five test runs. The flight was a test of how well the shuttle's landing and braking system would handle a concrete runway, the same type that will be used when the craft first returns from space in early 1978.

While the other landings took place on a broad, dry lake bed, Wednesday's landing was to have been a pinpoint touchdown on the 15,000-foot landing strip. But the shuttle hit the concrete runway and bounced back into the air. Its stubby wings wobbling from side to side.

After another little hop, the 93-ton craft touched down smoothly and rolled quickly to a stop with 2,000 feet of runway remaining.

Prince Charles, who had met Haise and Fullerton during his visit to Houston, "was a little tense" when the craft bounced on landing, said NASA official Stan Miller, who watched the landing with the prince. "But he's a pilot, and I think he understands those things."

Haise, who piloted two of the other test flights, said Wednesday's bumpy landing made the test "somewhat of a personal disappointment, because you always want to do the right thing, and in this case, the right thing was to put it down right on the line."

"Overall, however," Haise added, "I'm very happy because we got the vehicle on the ground safely."

Fullerton blamed the landing problem on the fact that "our gliding performance was better than expected" and the shuttle was "too hot" — coming in too fast — as it approached touchdown.

Jimmy's White House Garment Bag Habit Proves Hard To Shake

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter no longer hops off airplanes hauling a garment bag, but he demonstrated during his recent Western swing that campaign habits die hard.

When Carter's limousine pulled up at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles, where he was to spend the night, the President headed straight for the vehicle's trunk and removed not only a garment bag but also a small black suitcase.

The White House naval aide made a serious attempt to unburden his boss, but Carter was adamant about serving as his own bellman.

During last year's campaign, Carter and his garment bag sometimes seemed inseparable, to the point where a Washington society columnist suggested that if the American people wanted a bellhop in the Oval Office, they would elect one.

Carter, subsequently laid down the burdens of baggage for the larger ones of his new office. Now he customarily carries nothing larger than a thin briefcase, if that.

Departing for a recent weekend visit to Camp David, Md., however, Amy Carter put her father back in the baggage handling business. Emerging from the White House with a hatbox in hand, Amy intercepted her father near the ramp of a waiting helicopter and thrust the luggage at him.

While the President stood on the lawn, looking bemused, Amy raced off toward some White House sedans parked 50 yards away. Her Secret Service bodyguards gave pursuit.

In a couple of minutes, Amy returned from one of the cars carrying her violin. Practice sessions obviously are a part of her Camp David routine.

During Carter's flight from Denver to Los Angeles last weekend, aides canvassed reporters aboard Air Force One for jokes or one-liners the President might consider using in addressing an evening fundraising dinner for the Democratic National Committee.

One suggestion was adopted. Courtesy of a newsman, Carter was able to tell his audience about efforts to involve brother Billy in the affairs of government.

"I had it all arranged," the President reported. "I was going to reorganize and put the CIA and the FBI together. But Billy said he wouldn't head up any agency that he couldn't spell..."

Carter's most recent reorganization plan would create a new Agency for International Communications to replace the U.S. Information Agency and also assume some cultural-educational exchange activities now handled by the State Department.

Some USIA employees have been grumbling that their prospective new agency would be CIA spelled backwards.

In his Los Angeles talk, Carter said he was hopeful the dinner would "raise enough money to have my brother Billy come out and speak next year." After the laughter subsided, the President added, "Billy brings me a lot of good publicity, as you well know."

Carter also poked fun at California Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown, Jr., seen by some at the White House as his most formidable potential Democratic challenger in 1980.

The President said he had received "a personal handwritten letter" from Brown inviting him to the $1,000-a-plate dinner. "I decided to come out here anyway," Carter concluded.

Hearing Seeks Link In Three Crimes

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — A court hearing is scheduled Nov. 2 on sealed evidence which special prosecutor Milton Blakey claims links Theodore R. Bundy with a slaying and the disappearance of two 17-year-old girls in Utah in 1974.

Bundy, formerly of Tacoma and Seattle, is challenging Blakey's notice of intent. The filing was part of legal maneuvering before Bundy's trial for the January, 1975, slaying of a Michigan nurse, Caryn Campbell of Dearborn.

Miss Campbell was vacationing at Snowmass near Aspen when she was slain.

Blakey filed a notice of intent Sept. 7 that he will try to link

Bundy, formerly of Tacoma, with the murder of Laura Ann Aime of Salem, Utah, whose body was found Nov. 27, 1974, after she was missing a week.

The prosecutor said he also would try to show that Bundy was involved in the disappearance of Debra Kent from a parking lot near Viewmont High School in Bountiful, Utah, in 1974.

Bundy, who is defending himself, said there was no connection among the cases. He has moved to strike the prosecutor's notice of intent.

He's Always Been White, But . . .

By MIKE HENDRICKS
Associated Press Writer
OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Ed Skelly has always considered himself a white man, but he says he is thinking of using the bit of Indian blood in his background to get work.

Because of a 1977 amendment to the Public Works Employment Act, 10 percent of the work for local projects funded by a federal grant must be given to companies controlled by "Negroes, Hispanics, Orientals, Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts."

Skelly, a mechanical contractor, and other contractors in this rural area say there are not enough minority businessmen around.

"I might just say I am an Indian, and they can't prove otherwise. I could just sit back and rip them all off," said Skelly.

The federal requirement is needlessly pushing up costs on projects funded by a $4 billion opened his business and knew nothing of the contractor's needs, but charged the contractor 12 percent of the profit to provide the needed supplies.

U.S. Rep. Robert McEwen, R-N.Y., whose district covers

North Country — or Aleuts or Eskimos or blacks," said Cary Brick, McEwen's executive assistant. "The specific problem ... is there are not any minority contractors up there. There are no minorities up there."

There are Indians in the area, Mohawks from the nearby St. Regis Indian Reservation. Many labor in the construction industry, but as workers building skyscrapers in New York City.

Henry Smith, a black pipe fitter, said he went into business as a supplier because of the demand for minority suppliers created by the legislation.

"We heard about the program and were told there was a vacuum in this area," Smith said Tuesday from the Rochester office of Smith-Perry Associates, incorporated in July. "As far as we know, the only other minority supplier is in New York City."

In Vermont, a black high school principal said he was going to start a supply business to keep federal funds in the state. In Pennsylvania, the program has been the subject of litigation.

A U.S. Department of Commerce spokesman in Washington said he had had no reports of phony businesses being set up to take advantage of the program, but added: "We've got a big program here and people are going to be trying all sorts of things to cash in on it."

The contractor said that in order to qualify for bidding on the contracts, he went to a minority broker who had just

Guinness Records Book Offers Remarkable Feats

LONDON (AP) — The Guinness Book of Records, that grand collection of famed doings, issues its 24th edition later this month, and fans of record-breaking feats will be treated to some new achievements.

In tribute to the ingenuity, or the restlessness, of the world, between 30 to 35 percent of this year's entries have been updated, replaced or revised.

Among the new entries: Turkish circus performer Suleyman Eris, 22, has become the shortest measured living dwarf at 30.1 inches.

Meanwhile, 22-year-old Sandy Allen of Shelbyville, Ind., has finally stopped growing and at 7 feet, 7.25 inches, is the tallest living woman.

Bob Speca, a University of Pennsylvania student, used one domino to topple 49,999 others in an almost 18-minute-long tumble.

A smelt weighing 1-16th of an ounce became the smallest fish to win a fishing competition when caught by Peter Christian of Norfolk, England. The other 107 competitors didn't catch anything.

New Zealander Paul Wilson ran 100 yards in 13.3 seconds to establish a record for the fastest run backwards.

A record for declared profits was set by the National Iranian Oil Co. with $17,175,182,000 in 1976.

The new 352-page book sells for about $6.

Lakers Facing Major Hurdle For Outright Crown

Lake Michigan Catholic has just one more barrier to clear to gain its fourth outright Red Arrow football title...but that last hurdle could be one of the toughest.

The Lakers (6-0), who won championships in 1969, '70, '73 and shared a crown with Watervliet in 1975, will tangle with defensive-minded Galien (3-3) at Dickinson Stadium Saturday night.

Friday league battles will find Watervliet (5-1) hosting Bridgman (5-1) with second place at stake, Eau Claire (0-6) travels to New Buffalo (1-5) and Berrien Springs (2-4) is at Hartford (2-4).

The Gaels, 4-3 overall, have been one of the top five defensive teams in southwestern Michigan all season. They currently are second in team defense (5.8 points per game) and third in yardage allowed (1,123) in southwestern Michigan.

Matt Koziel has been a mainstay on both offense and defense for Gallen. Last week, the senior blocked an extra point kick to insure a 13-12 victory over New Buffalo. He also is the team's quarterback.

Catholic's Head Coach Terry Rose is proud of his defense's work, too. The Lakers are tied for third in the area with Watervliet in points allowed (46) and is sixth in yardage allowed (1,177). They are giving up an average of 3.4 yards per rush while gaining almost five yards per rush on offense.

The defense has also shown a nose for the ball as it is averaging almost three fumble recoveries and two pass interceptions per game. Clancy Rose leads the team in recoveries with six and Mike Masini, Bill Halamka and John Spear have each picked off three passes.

On the other hand, quarterback Masini has only had four passes pilfered, none of them coming in the last three games.

Catholic, ranked third in this week's Associated Press Class C poll, has been devastating in the middle two quarters, outscoring its opponents 59-6 in the second quarter and 64-0 in the third.

Rose gives a lot of credit to his team's third quarter success to new Coach Denny Miller, who is on the phones in the press box. "At halftime, we go over the things Denny has spotted and then go out and do the job in the third quarter," Rose states.

The coach obviously respects the job Tony Yonto has done at Gallen. "Tony has done just a super job with his kids," declares Rose. "He has some real stickers on his club. It's going to be a real knockdown, drag out game and I'm glad we're playing at home."

The Gaels have been causing some problems for offensive lines with their stunting, but Rose feels his trenchmen can handle them. "When our line wants to wake up and hit someone, they can do the job," he says. "They can break the big plays."

The line showed that last week against Berrien Springs when it sprung Ron Maddux on a 64-yard TD run and another gallyup of 38 yards up the middle.

"We've also been working hard on the sled this week," Rose adds. "We put the whole freshman team on the sled and let the varsity drive them out."

Rose knows his team must put the win over the Shamrocks behind them. "Last week it was one of those games where you make a lot of mistakes, but when you win, you are happy," he says.

"This week it's for all the marbles as far as the conference is concerned and to stay alive in the playoffs."

Rose cited linebackers Jon Masini, Chris Hocker, Mark Kasimer and Mike Brown for their good play.

"Bridgman has just been a very good, consistent team that doesn't make mistakes," commented Watervliet's Head Coach Doug Borsum about his upcoming foe. "They have what we feel is a good backfield with quickness. They have good size and a good offensive line."

"Also, quarterback Bill Moreland can option as well as throw the ball."

Like Catholic, Borsum feels his team was a little down for last week's game. "After coming off the Laker game, we were emotionally down and had a few injuries. Eau Claire played a good game in stopping our ground game. We were flat and they were up."

"In the second half, we got the offense going and I hope to have that momentum going this week."

BARNES STARS IN VICTORY

Pistons Get Big 'News'

DETROIT (AP) — Coach Herb Brown, assistant Larry Jones and center Bob Lanier have been coming down hard on Marvin Barnes.

So Wednesday night Barnes went up high for every rebound he could grab to get them off his back.

Barnes hauled down 19 rebounds, his high in the National Basketball Association, and scored 15 points to help the Pistons breeze past the Golden State Warriors 123-107.

Lanier scored 25 points and grabbed 13 rebounds, while Ralph Simpson and Leon Douglas added 22 and 17 points respectively for Detroit, which has won three in a row.

Phil Smith poured in 32 points for the Warriors, who had a three-game winning streak snapped. Rick Barry added 21.

Former All-American guard from Michigan, rookie Rickey Green, started for Golden State and scored six points in 18 minutes.

But "News" Barnes was the big news.

"Brown's been getting after me about rebounding and defense," said the 6-foot-9 forward. "Lanier and Jones have been talking to me about it, too. I feel I'd better get it done on the court because I don't want them getting back on me in the locker room."

Barnes, who got out of prison in Rhode Island just four days before the season started, has been slowly building up his stamina and has improved steadily.

He played 18, 30 and 25 minutes before spending 38 against Golden State. His rebounds have climbed from three to nine to 13 to 19. The 15 points is his top output so far.

Barnes said Brown "inspires me to do my job. Herb's been in my corner all along. This is my way of repaying him for his faithfulness, and the owners' — with good play."

It was a parole violation of a previous assault and battery conviction that landed Barnes in prison for five months, a stint that ended with his parole two weeks ago. "Marvin is doing the job," Brown said. "... When the big fella (Lanier) comes out we still have strength now."

Warriors coach Al Attles said: Detroit is real good. Barnes is establishing himself. He was upset over the Pistons' offensive rebounding, saying, "We can't afford to give them second and third shots."

Attles said Green "will be a fine player one day... He will work in well."

Detroit staged a 16-4 blitz in the final four minutes to hold off the Warriors. They had climbed to within four points at 107-103 when a tip-in by Barnes and a jumper by Simpson started the Pistons on their closing spree.

Golden State led 30-26 early, but Simpson hit for 12 points and Lanier nine and Detroit surged to a 60-50 halftime lead.

The Warriors pulled to within two points in the third quarter before Eric Money put on a three-basket spree in 26 seconds to ease the pressure for the Pistons.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the New Orleans Jazz beat the New York Knicks 123-106, the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Buffalo Braves 97-92, and the defending champion Portland Trail Blazers fell from the unbeaten list by losing to Denver 111-108. The New Jersey Nets dropped to 0-4 by bowing to the Atlanta Hawks 113-110 in overtime.

How's this for balance — the National Basketball Association season is only eight days old, and there's just one undefeated team left.

What's more, every team except one has at least one victory.

Phoenix is the only club in the 22-team league with an unblemished record. The Suns were idle Wednesday and do not play again until Friday night, when they put their 3-0 mark on the line against the Jazz in New Orleans.

Denver took a 34-22 first quarter lead by scoring 19 in a row but saw Portland chip away at the lead and finally go ahead in the fourth quarter. But Denver came on again, going ahead to stay on a jumper by Dan Issel with 1:57 left.

David Thompson led the Nuggets with 24 points while Bobby Gross had 22 for the Blazers.

The loss dropped Portland to 3-1, one-half game behind Phoenix in the Pacific Division. The Nets blew a nine-point lead in the fourth quarter. Reserve guards Charlie Criss and Eddie Johnson led the way for the Hawks, Criss scoring six points in the final period and Johnson six in overtime.

The Hawks put the game away with nine points in a row in overtime, including four by Johnson.

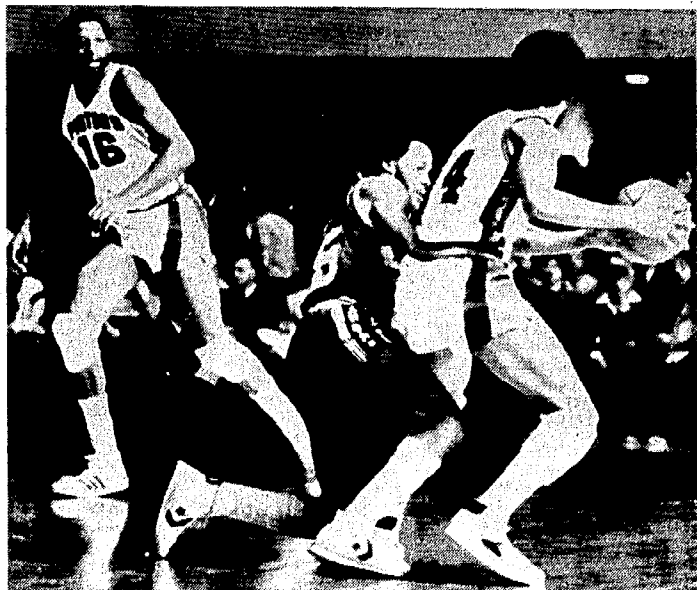

Pete Maravich's hot shooting sent the Jazz in front early, and the Knicks were never able to assert themselves. Maravich scored 30 points and Gail Goodrich and Len Robinson had 25 each for New Orleans. Robinson also had 18 rebounds.

The game was halted twice when players passed career scoring milestones. Goodrich passed the 17,000-point mark, and New York's Earl Monroe surpassed 15,000.

Fred Brown, who scored 37 points, put Seattle ahead 93-82 on a corner jumper with 56 seconds to play. He then hit a 30-footer with 24 seconds left and closed out the victory with two free throws seven seconds later.

Buffalo scored just 10 points in the first period.

Three-Man Crews Favored In NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Drucker, the National Basketball Association's new supervisor of officials, says he favors using three-man crews to referee NBA games.

"The way the game of professional basketball has changed, it really behooves the league to take a hard look at it this year," Drucker said of the switch from two referees a game to three, something a few college conferences will be experimenting with this season but which has never been tried by the NBA.

"The game has speeded itself up, but the referees haven't kept pace. Football went from two or three officials to six. Baseball started with two, then went to three, now has four and in the World Series has six. Basketball is getting to that point."

"I like three-man crews from a technical standpoint," Drucker added in an interview at NBA headquarters here. "It's easier to cover the complete floor. There would be other problems — personalities and things of that nature — but I think over-all, for getting the best job done, three referees would help."

Drucker, who joined the NBA as a referee a quarter-century ago and last month succeeded the retired John Nucatola as supervisor of officials, says he also favors some sort of no foul-out rule.

"The no foul-out rule in the ABA was my idea," said Drucker, who refereed for seven years in the American Basketball Association — also doubled as supervisor of officials part of that time — before rejoining the NBA last year.

Under the present NBA rule, a player must leave the game after committing his sixth personal foul. In the ABA, if a player committed six fouls he was permitted to remain in the game, but after each subsequent foul he committed, the other team received possession of the ball as well as its free throws.

"I think that penalty is too severe," said Drucker. "That could mean a five or six-point play, and not too many coaches are going to keep a player in under those conditions."

"There's a school that thinks if a player is that poor and fouls that much, he should be penalized. I really don't think so. I think whether he plays or not should be a coach's decision. It's like saying if a shortstop makes four errors, he has to leave the game. If he's making four errors, he's hurting his team, and it's the manager's problem."

One thing Drucker does not favor is the ABA's three-point goal, where a player got three points for a shot made from beyond 25 feet.

"The ABA did certain things for show business," observed Drucker. "I don't think the NBA really needs it. It's a gimmick, that's all. Why should that be worth three points, and if some guy drives through and makes a layup with people hanging all over him and that's only worth two?"

Third-Grade Boy New American Marathon Hero

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Wesley Paul finished the New York marathon last week in three hours, 31 seconds — about 48 minutes slower than the winner.

But for a 15-year-old, it wasn't a bad time for a 26-mile run. It was 15 minutes better than his performance last month in the Chicago Marathon.

And Wesley, who is 8 years old, says he could have run the New York marathon faster if the field hadn't been so crowded at the start. He was the smallest — and youngest — of 4,800 entrants.

"It was very hard moving around at the beginning," Wesley said. "I guess I probably started almost at the back of the whole crowd."

He said, however, that the New Yorkers were very polite to him even if they were in his way.

"It was all right," Wesley said. "About the 20th mile my legs got really sore."

His father, Alvin Paul, is a mathematics teaching assistant at the University of Missouri.

Paul said his son began following him as he jogged several years ago. "In fact he beats me all the time now," his father said. "He loves to run. He loves to talk about running with people he knows. And he likes to read a lot right now, especially books about dinosaurs."

Wesley ran his first marathon in Columbia on Labor Day in 1976. He turned in a time of five hours, 30 minutes.

At Edwardsville, Ill., he took a wrong turn and ran 33 miles instead of 26.

At the Columbia Labor Day marathon this year, he was knocked down by a car and needed 10 stitches.

"The car knocked him down but he said he wasn't hurt and he wanted to finish," his father said. "Of course, that was out of the question."

Wesley won't be eligible for the Boston Marathon, the nation's oldest, for 10 years. It requires its competitors to be at least 18.

SEAT OF THE PANTS SAVE: New York Rangers' goalie Wayne Thomas drops to the ice at New York's Madison Square Garden Wednesday night as he stops shot in first period by St. Louis Blues Rick Bourbonnais (28). Thomas had 128 minutes of shutout hockey before giving up a goal in third period. Rangers went on to win the NHL match 6-2. See story on page 24. (AP Wirephoto)

Patriot Center Also Dentist Lenkaitis Has Own 'Drill'

By DICK BRAUDE

AP Sports Writer

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Lots of National Football Leagueers can remove teeth, but only New England Patriots center Bill Lenkaitis washes his hands first.

And when Chuck Fairbanks barks at Lenkaitis to run a drill again, the 250-pounder's first impulse is to check the coach's molars.

Drill has a double meaning

Michigan Film Is Switched

for Lenkaitis, a practicing dentist who thinks filling a cavity can be tougher than pass blocking.

"Dentistry is hard work, harder than football," he says in his plush suite of offices off the quiet town square in this suburb where the Patriots play. "You're always craning your neck. Your whole body tightens up."

Lenkaitis, 31, is the Patriots' team dentist who practices dentistry "in a fun way."

"It's completely separate from football," he says. "I'm in my own world, like the guy who comes home from work and does sculpture."

During the season, Lenkaitis is a dentist all day Tuesday, the Patriots' day off, and on Thursday nights. In the off-season, it's full-time, although the ambitious entrepreneur is opening a racquetball court in the Boston suburbs with ex-Patriots receiver Randy Vataha, now with Green Bay.

"It's a fallacy that we (professional football players) are always involved in football," Lenkaitis said as soft rock stereo music wafted through his offices.

"I just take it as a game that I'm lucky enough to get paid to play. It's a damn kids game."

Lenkaitis, a Penn State graduate, took six years — double the usual — to get through the University of Tennessee dental school. He opened his Foxboro office a year ago.

The reception room in the unobtrusive medical building

And Lenkaitis says his football affiliation may actually be a detriment in building a medical practice.

"It's all word of mouth," he says, unaware of the pun. "People won't come unless they hear that the guy 'doesn't hurt.'"

"People think I'm in a violent game and some are afraid that I'll hurt them. And people think we travel all the time, which isn't true."

Rozema Top Rookie

DETROIT (AP) — Dave Rozema is being named the Detroit Tigers baseball club Rookie of the Year by the Detroit Sports Broadcasters Association.

The announcement Wednesday makes the third consecutive year a pitcher has been named to the honor through a poll of active DSBAs members. Mark Fidrych took the title last year, while Vern Riffe won it in 1975.

Rozema, a 21-year-old Grand Rapids native, went to spring training in 1977 as a non-roster player hoping to win a spot on the staff after two sensational minor league seasons. By the end of the season, with Fidrych out because of shoulder problems, the Rozema had become the mainstay of the American League team.

The 6-foot-4, 190-pound right-hander led the club with a 15-7 record, 16 complete games, 218 innings pitched and a 3.09 earned run average — seventh in the league in ERA and win percentage.

Scouts At ND, 'M'

DALLAS (AP) — The Notre Dame-Navy game at South Bend, Ind., was on the agenda of Cotton Bowl scouts this weekend.

Notre Dame has been prominently mentioned as the team most likely to play against the host Southwest Conference champion Jan. 2 in the annual Cotton Bowl — if the Fighting Irish keep winning.

The Ohio State-Wisconsin game at Columbus, Ohio and another Big Ten tussle, Iowa at Michigan, also will be viewed by Cotton Bowl selection committeemen.

Benton Harbor Seeking To Contain Bearcats' Caper

Larry Caper. Remember that name if you're a Benton Harbor football fan because you'll be hearing it a lot Friday night.

Battle Creek Central faces the Tigers at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Flushing Field. And it will be Caper who heads the Bearcat express.

The 5-7, 185-pound Caper has rushed for 1,068 yards this season after a brilliant junior year. Last season he gained 1,340 yards, despite missing two games with assorted injuries. One of the games he did not play in was Benton Harbor's 26-19 victory over the Bearcats.

"We've got an excellent opportunity if we can stop Caper," Benton Harbor coach Paul Bergan says. "If we don't stop Caper, we're going to have trouble all night."

Caper possesses both speed and size in his running plan. He was clocked at 8.8 in the 100-yard dash during last spring's track season. And Caper's huge frame also allows him to run inside.

Despite Caper, Battle Creek sports a disappointing 4-3 record. Inconsistency has hurt the Bearcats. Battle Creek is averaging more than 250 yards per game in total offense, but is scoring at only a 14-point clip.

Among Battle Creek's losses is a heartbreaking 14-13 setback to East Lansing, ranked No. 9 in the latest Associated Press Class A poll. Central has handed Ohio power Lima its only loss.

"They're huge and they just try to blow you out of there," Bergan says. "We're going to have to rely on our quickness and not give them a good shot at us. We can't take them on one-on-one."

Five Battle Creek offensive linemen are around or over 200 pounds. The smallest is end Bob Quinn (6-4, 198). Joining Quinn are tackles Steve Sunday (6-2, 215) and Andy O'Connell (6-0, 235), guard Mark Johncock (6-3, 205) and end Randy Williams (6-2, 200).

Assisting Caper in the backfield are fullback Dave Ellis (6-2, 215) and tailback Jay Thack (5-10, 170). Both have rushed for more than 400 yards.

"We have to play good defense," Bergan says. "We can't let them break tackles on us. I really think it's up to our defense. I think our offense is coming along well enough so we can score. It's up to the defense to hold them down."

Benton Harbor had its best offensive performance in five weeks, totalling 187 yards against Traverse City. But the injury-plagued Tigers lost tailback Maverick Burton for the year with a knee injury. Burton was top Benton Harbor ground gainer with 413 yards.

The Tigers will be going with an entirely new backfield against Battle Creek, than the one which started the season. Neil Kirkwood will be going at quarterback.

Kirkwood completed nine of 16 passes for 106 yards against Traverse City.

Joining Kirkwood will be Andrew Hurst at tailback along with either Tyrone Rolfe, William Thompson or Calvin Ferguson.

Along with Burton, Benton Harbor lost cornerbacks Ronnie Jones and Gene Hines last week. Jones is out with an ankle injury, while Hines is a doubtful starter after re-injuring his knee.

It will be the last home game of the year for Benton Harbor, which has dropped six straight after beating Kalamazoo Central in its season opener.

"The last two weeks are very important to our program," Bergan says. "We haven't gotten many breaks and hopefully that will turn around for us. The enthusiasm is still very high so maybe we can get something going."

Battle Creek has won six of the last seven meetings, losing only last year's contest.

VERSATILE MORSE FENNVILLE KEY

Warkentien, Defense Spark Decatur

The running of sensational Dennis Warkentien and a super stout defense has added up to another winning season at Decatur.

The Raiders, under Don Raterink, the dean of area coaches, can clinch the outright Southwestern Athletic Conference football crown this Friday night when they host winless Bloomingdale.

South Haven will be trying to rebound and at the same time clinch a share of the Wolverine Conference title at Paw Paw Friday while Fennville and its versatile performer Gary Morse will try to nail down a winning season against Covert.

A Decatur win would give the Raiders a 6-0 SAC mark and an undisputed championship. A Decatur loss and a Gohies victory over Lawrence would deadlock the two squads for the top spot at 5-1.

Warkentien, a 5-11, 175-pound tailback, has been a real workhorse for the Raiders. With a great 265-yard effort gained last week he cracked the 1,000-yard rushing barrier and now has 1,000.

"We've had several good backs through the years and Warkentien ranks right up there with the rest of them," lauds Raterink, who has coached at Decatur for 14 years. "He has a lot of good qualities, including both speed and quickness. And I think he's a lot stronger than last year."

Warkentien's 1,000 yards rate second among area rushing leaders. He is also seventh in scoring with 56 points.

The Raider offensive line has helped Warkentien to his fabulous season. Stalwarts on the line are John Leach, Jim Hall, Mike Fuentes, Gary Miller, Corney Phelps, Bob Taylor and Dan Druskovich.

Last season Warkentien probably would have also made it to 1,000 yards. He gained over 800 yards in about five and a half games. In the sixth he broke his hand and saw limited action the rest of the year.

Decatur had always been known for rugged defenses under Raterink and this year is no exception. The Raiders are first in the area in points allowed (4.6 per game) and second in total yardage given up (197.7). The Raiders have also posted four shutouts this season.

"We haven't given up the big play this year, that's been the big key on defense," notes Raterink.

Top defensive performers have been Warkentien at safety, Tim Curven and Ted Fuentes at halfback, Leach and Druskovich at ends, Taylor and Phelps at tackles, Miller, Tim McLeese and Ron Haas at guards, and Mike Fuentes, Wayne Green and Wayne Polincak at linebackers.

What's amazing is Decatur has forged its success with about only 14 players. "The key is we haven't had many injuries...we sure had little depth to begin the season," adds Raterink.

Raterink has produced a sparkling 77-40-4 mark in his 14 years at Decatur. His teams have captured four SAC titles in the seven year existence of the league. The Raiders have also enjoyed nine winning seasons in a row, including 6-1 this season.

South Haven, which lost a tough 31-28 game at the final gun to Midland Dow last Friday, should get back on its winning track against Paw Paw, 1-6 overall and in the Wolverine. The Rams, which dropped to No. 6 in the Class B poll this week, are unbeaten against the Jedskins in 16 straight contests.

"It was certainly a tough loss and a real disappointment from the standpoint of coming so close," reflects Ram Coach Gary Steudle on the loss to Dow. "But now we have to be ready for this week."

"We're not looking past Paw Paw. We play one game at a time on the way to the conference title. We don't want to look past any one. Paw Paw held Bart Haines to about 70 yards rushing last week."

South Haven, which is still harboring hopes of getting into the state playoffs, continues to head the area in all major offensive categories. Shelby Gamble also is the leading rusher with 1,153 yards and top scorer with 124 points while Perry Palanca is the lone area passer who has thrown over 1,000 yards (1,060).

Fennville is 4-3 this season and 2-1 in the Allegan-Ottawa League. A win over Covert will assure the Blackhawks of second place and a winning season.

A big reason for the Fennville comeback from last season's 2-7 mark has been the play of Gary Morse. Morse is second in the area scoring race with 75 points.

The senior halfback has put points on the board about every possible way this year, including throwing touchdown passes, running over TDs, kicking field goals and extra points and running in PATs. Morse is two-for-two in field goals, which have covered 24 and 23 yards. The two are the most in southwestern Michigan.

The 5-11, 170-pound senior has picked up about 500 yards rushing.

"He is very versatile...he can run and throw and kick," says Fennville Coach Gary Frens of Morse, who is the son of Blackhawk Basketball Coach Larry Morse. "But he's had a lot of help from the line and he hasn't always been the team's leading rusher."

Ex-Coach Boasts Iowa, 'M' Stars

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Dick Cole may decide to watch Saturday's Iowa-Michigan Big Ten football game from the end zone seats at Michigan Stadium.

It would be difficult for the former prep coach to choose either the Michigan or the Iowa side of the field.

Players Cole coached at Cass Tech in Detroit will be playing for both teams. Michigan's got Brian Huckleby, Roosevelt Smith, Curtis Greer and Tom Seaborn. Iowa's got Leven Weiss and Lermuel Grayson.

"Just because I have a lot of kids at Michigan, I'm not pro-Michigan," he said. "I'm pro-Iowa."

Cole isn't coaching football these days, although he is an assistant coach of the girls basketball team at Martin Luther King High School in Detroit.

"I've had offers to coach in college but I'd rather be a high school coach," Cole said. "You have more influence on a kid, a chance to mold him. I love coaching and I go to all the clinics."

"It isn't just seeing them play college ball, though. I recently saw a kid who went to Michigan but never will play there. He's in engineering and he's doing well and that's a great satisfaction."

Cole's Cass Tech teams captured five Public School League Southeast Division championships and three times were runners-up in the league's title game.

One of Cole's Cass Tech products is Aaron Kyle, a first-round draft choice of Dallas who is a starter for the Cowboys. He went to college at Wyoming. Other Cole-coached players have gone on to Mid-American Conference schools, plus Washington and Arizona.

"The type of kid you turn out is more important than quantity," Cole said. "If you just have dummies who are great athletes, you haven't accomplished much."

Weiss, a sophomore, became Iowa's starting center three games ago. He was Cass Tech's captain as a senior.

"He's one of the nicest, most intelligent kids you'll see," Cole said. "...really come on."

Grayson is a second-team offensive tackle for Iowa, while Huckleby is Michigan's starting tailback and Smith is his backup. Greer starts for the Wolverines at defensive tackle, while Seaborn is a second-string linebacker who gets almost as much playing time as a starter.

Michigan, ranked sixth in the nation, takes a 6-1 record into the game. Iowa is 3-4.

SPORTS CAPSULES

GOLF
VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia — Hugh Baiocchi of South Africa fired a 5-under-par 88 to take the first round lead in the $57,000 Victoria Falls Golf Classic.

Scotland's Sam Torrance was one shot off the pace and Gary Player of South Africa was two strokes back.

TENNIS
CARACAS, Venezuela — Utilizing a powerful serve, Romanian Ilie Nastase defeated Italy's Adriano Panatta 4-6, 6-1, 6-4 in the opening match of the "Superennis 77" tennis tournament.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Third-seeded Rosie Casals, seventh-seeded Jo Anne Russell and Terry Holladay advanced to the quarter-finals of the Boring Tennis Classic with straight set triumphs while Billie Jean King won her first match in the $75,000 tournament.

Miss Casals defeated Julie Anthony 6-4, 6-1; Miss Russell, seeded Linky Boshoff of South Africa 6-3, 6-1; and Miss Holladay beat Glynis Coles of Great Britain 6-2, 6-3.

Ms. King did not have to extend herself in defeating veteran Francoise Durr of France 6-1, 6-2.

Martina Navratilova, tied for second place with Betty Stove of The Netherlands in the points standing of the international series and top-seeded here, withdrew because of an attack of tendinitis in her shoulder.

PERTH, Australia — American Tim Wilkison beat Phil Dent of Australia 6-2, 5-7, 6-3 in a 2½-hour match to advance to the quarter-finals.

ROUNDING OUT THE TOP 10, in order: Minnesota (44), Colorado College (32), Notre Dame (22), Minnesota-Duluth (20) and Michigan State (13).

Michigan hasn't won a WCHA title since 1963-64, but drew strong support this time, with no league coach ranking the Wolverines lower than third.

A year ago, the coaches picked Minnesota to win the title after the Gophers came into the season as the defending national champion. But the Gophers slipped to seventh as Wisconsin ran away with the crown.

Wisconsin finished WCHA play with a 26-5-1 record, the best ever for a conference team, then went on to nudge Michigan 7-6 in overtime to claim the national championship.

Association play opens this weekend with Denver at Michigan, Notre Dame at Colorado College, Wisconsin at Michigan Tech, Minnesota Duluth at Minnesota and Michigan State at North Dakota.

vance to the quarter-finals of a $48,000 tennis tournament.

Third-seeded Harold Solomon also moved to the quarters with a 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Ross Case of Australia.

Earlier, Jimmy Connors pulled out of the tournament after tearing a groin muscle during his match with Sashi Menon of India.

Indian Runners Capture Two

HARTFORD — Coach Ed Gustafson's Hartford cross country team wound up the dual meet season on a winning note by taking both ends of a double dual meet with Decatur and Lawton here Wednesday.

Russ Gibson of Hartford toured the course in a winning time of 16:02 to lead the Indians to a 18-45 win over Decatur and a 21-40 triumph over Lawton. Decatur edged Lawton 28-29 in the other part of the meet.

Hartford's Dennis Frazier was second with Wiles of Decatur third, Lawton's Copeland fourth and Nielsen fifth and Hartford runners Steve Bucholz and Fred Bower sixth and seventh, respectively.

The Indians end at 11-1.

RECORD STREAK
George Blanda played in a record 341 pro football games.

Michigan Icers Picked To Capture League Title

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — The University of Michigan, which hasn't won a Western Collegiate Hockey Association title in 13 years, has been picked by league coaches to unseat national champion Wisconsin and win the conference title.

Michigan and Wisconsin both drew four first-place votes in the seventh annual poll of coaches by the Grand Forks Herald.

But Michigan drew better support for second place to nudge Wisconsin for the top spot with 78 points. Wisconsin earned runnerup spot with 75.

Denver University and Michigan Tech each drew one first place vote. Denver was selected to finish third, getting Klekamp failed to operate his vehicle on the right lane of the road.

Gassoff, his wife and other Blues players were attending a barbeque at Unger's Franklin County home when the accident occurred. The motorcycle Gassoff was riding belonged to Unger.

Duke, Minnesota Claim Cage Action Not Due To Upset

CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Minnesota's action to get back into the good graces of the NCAA has nothing to do with the possibility of a football bowl bid, Commissioner Wayne Duke of the Big Ten and Athletic Director Paul Giel both have emphasized.

The university's Assembly Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics declared basketball players Mike Thompson and Dave Winey ineligible Monday, ending a year-long feud between the university and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The entire Minnesota athletic program has been on indefinite probation because the university refused to declare the players ineligible after Thompson was accused of selling complimentary tickets and Winey allegedly accepted free lodging from a Minnesota booster.

The announcement came after Minnesota upset Michigan 16-0 last week to boost its record to 5-2 giving the Gophers a chance to finish with a 9-2 record which could attract a bowl bid.

Duke said that discussions among the university, the NCAA and the Big Ten had been going on for several weeks and if the matter was not settled, the Big Ten conference stood a chance of incurring penalties by the NCAA.

"There was a chance of the Big Ten losing its automatic qualification for an NCAA Tournament basketball berth," said Duke. "And if that happened, the Big Ten would also lose its chances of sending a second team to the tournament."

For the last two tournaments, the Big Ten has sent its champion and runnerup to the tournament and in 1976 Michigan and Indiana played in the title game with Indiana winning 86-68.

"I met with University of Minnesota officials and told them if they continued to defy the rules, the Big Ten could suffer," said Duke. "With our basketball programs being prestigious and competitive as they are, we couldn't afford it. It is hard to speculate what the NCAA position would have been or what Minnesota's position would have been in the Big Ten."

Giel said the football victory over Michigan had nothing to do with the decision. "In fact, we had reached the decision and somebody jokingly said we could have announced it at halftime.

"We had exhausted our legal avenues following the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis which threw out the injunction under which we had been operating," said Giel.

"Having lost our legal shelter, we contemplated the consequences to our athletic program and considered the possible penalties which might be assessed to the Big Ten," said Giel. "We fought the good fight on moral and legal issues but we found ourselves living outside the law."

SJ Swimmers Stay Perfect

St. Joseph's girls swimming team continued to rack up impressive scores as the Bears won their seventh dual meet without a loss this season, beating Portage Northern 96-78 Wednesday night at home.

Diana Grandy and Barb Goodhart were triple winners for the Bears. Grandy set a new school record of 56.4 in the 100 freestyle, swam the backstroke leg on the medley relay and won the 100 backstroke.

Goodhart swam the breaststroke leg of the medley relay and won the 200 individual medley and 100 breaststroke.

Double winners included Cathy Rahn (butter fly in medley relay, 50 freestyle), Nancy Waldenmaier (freestyle relay, 100 butterfly) and Kenna Finch (freestyle relay, 500 freestyle).

Waldenmaier qualified for the state meet with her 1:05.2 in the butterfly and Finch's 5:21.4 in the 500 freestyle is a new school record and could be the second best time in the state, according to coach Tim Ivanval.

Other winners include Lori Bestervelt, who swam the freestyle leg on the medley relay and Kim Maddock and Ann Thomas, the other two members on the winning 400 freestyle relay team.

Seven members of the team have been invited to the Detroit News meet which is Saturday at Schoolcraft College in Detroit. The top 18 swimmers in each event in the state are invited. The St. Joe girls attending are Thomas, Finch, Waldenmaier, Goodhart, Rahn, Grandy and Patti Koontz.

CanAmer Board Of Directors Meets Saturday

The annual CanAmer board of directors meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 29, in the St. Joseph Holiday Inn, according to CanAmer chairman Oliver Edwards.

Officers and the executive committee members will be elected, and changes and amendments in by-laws will be considered.

Don Rives Tired Of Bear Boos

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Rives, the Chicago Bears' middle linebacker, is angry. He's angry with the fans and he's angry with himself.

One reason he's so angry is that he can't figure out why the Bears aren't winning, especially against a team like the Atlanta Falcons who beat Chicago 16-10 in a National Football League game Sunday.

"I thought we played our best game on defense," said Rives, "but, then again, their offense is terrible. I don't think they have any offense. Atlanta shouldn't be on the same field with us.

"But Atlanta had three sacks and picked up five turnovers," said Rives. "We didn't have any. Atlanta, New Orleans and even Minnesota don't have the personnel we have. So why aren't we 6-0 instead of 2-4? I don't know."

"We have to start winning and we have to start this week against Green Bay," said Rives. "We're a better team than Green Bay. I know we'll beat Green Bay. We can't win one and lose one. We have to win, win and win. It has to snowball. We need a streak. Pittsburgh lost four last year and then won eight straight."

"I'm not saying we're a Pittsburgh, but with our schedule we should beat everyone we play," said Rives, now in his fifth season with the Bears after having the unenviable task of replacing the legendary Dick Butkus.

"We had a tough schedule last year but we played better football," said Rives. "Now we have a chance to have a winner and we haven't put it together. We can't keep giving the ball up."

"It doesn't make any difference how good you are," he continued. "If we don't start doing our jobs, we'll be out of jobs. You can't blame the offense or the defense or the special teams or the coaches. You have to blame everyone."

Rives, a 16th-round draft choice from Texas Tech in 1973, then took off on the fans at Soldier Field.

"Our fans sometimes make me so sick," he said. "When we come out on the field, it's like a morgue. Everywhere else, the home team gets cheered when it comes on the field. Our fans only cheer when we're ahead. Otherwise, it's nothing but boos."

"All we're asking is for respect and we can do without the boos," said Rives. "But we can't get it from our fans. You know what one guy hollered to me? He asked me why I don't get films of Dick Butkus and study them. Who can be another Dick Butkus?"

SMC Hosting Meet Friday

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan College will be aiming for its seventh state-regional cross country title when it hosts the Region 12 and state meet at Hampshire Country Club here Friday at 3 p.m.

The meet serves as a qualifier for the NJCAA Championships on Nov. 12, at Tucson, Ariz. The top two regional teams and the top 15 individuals qualify for the nationals.

Coach Ron Gunn knows that his title defense will be tough. "We can't take anything for granted," he says. "Once you do, you're in trouble. Everyone coming to this meet will be sky high and we will have to be at our best. This region traditionally has been very tough in cross country."

Teams looking tough in the meet are Jackson and Oakland. There will be 18 colleges and over 200 runners in the meet.

There will also be a special women's race at 4 p.m.

The Roadrunners have been national champs three times and finished third last year.

Larway Generates Houston OT Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Larway and Wayne Rutledge were both on the winning team, but on opposite sides mentally.

Houston's 8-7 World Hockey Association victory over Edmonton in overtime Wednesday night did a lot for Larway's confidence — but very little for Rutledge's.

Larway scored four points, but Rutledge allowed all seven Edmonton goals.

"We're getting the goals but we're not getting the defense," said Rutledge, then added: "... I'm going to have to get better myself."

On the other hand, Larway was sky high.

"I can't remember my last four-point night," he said. "A game like this will really help my confidence."

Larway scored his second goal of the game at 4:39 of overtime for the Aeros. Larway's winning goal spoiled a dramatic five-goal rally by the Oilers as Houston took its third straight victory.

In other WHA games, the Indianapolis Racers trimmed the Winnipeg Jets 5-3 and the New England Whalers crushed the Quebec Nordiques 7-1.

Claude St. Sauveur scored three goals and had one assist to help Indianapolis beat Winnipeg. The Racers never trailed in the contest.

The father-son combination of Gordie and Mark Howe keyed a three-goal second period to lead New England past Quebec. The younger Howe scored at 4:06 and his father followed with a goal 1:14 later on a deflection shot of a shot from high in the slot.

Ali Exhibition Slated Dec. 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Muhammad Ali has announced plans to hold a five-round exhibition match here Dec. 2, with proceeds to go to the Children's Institute for Developmental Disabilities.

A spokesman for the world heavyweight champion said Monday that Ali will meet Scott Ledoux in the exhibition in the Auditorium Theater.

Ledoux earned a draw last Saturday with undefeated Olympic champion Leon Spinks in a televised bout at Las Vegas.

The house will be sealed for $20, $40 and $100 with most of the money and all of Ali's purse going to the institute.

Lakeshore Wins 4

Lakeshore Junior High won four football games from St. Joseph Wednesday. The seventh grade Reds beat the St. Joe Golds 14-0 and the Whites topped the SJ Browns 38-6 at St. Joe. The eighth grade Reds blanked the SJ Golds 14-0 while the Whites beat the Browns 28-0.

BLACK HAWKS TIE FLYERS

Bruins' Rough Style Backfires

From ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The physical style of the Boston Bruins has helped them win a lot of National Hockey League games through the years.

But Wednesday night, it helped them lose one.

The officials kept a close check on the Bruins' style about their hard-checking business against the Minnesota North Stars.

As a result, Boston players spent the night jumping in and out of the penalty box and dropped a 3-0 decision.

"No doubt they tried to play a physical game and it apparently cost them," said Minnesota Coach Ted Harris. "That is their style. If they get caught at it, they have to pay the penalty."

Boston Coach Don Cherry, quite naturally, had a different view of the action. He thought the officials were a little too quick on the trigger with their penalty calls.

"What were the penalties in the first period, 6-1 against us?" he said. "That tells the story right there. It's hard to get something going when you have somebody in the penalty box half the game."

Tim Young and Alex Pirou scored first-period goals and Glen Sharpley added the clincher on a breakaway in the third period as the North stars and goalie Pete LaPresle blanked the Bruins for their first victory of season after six losses.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs played to a 2-2 tie; the Washington Capitals defeated the Atlanta Flames 6-2; the Philadelphia Flyers and Chicago Black Hawks fought to a 2-2 deadlock; the Detroit Red Wings downed the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2; the New York Rangers stopped the St. Louis Blues 6-2 and the New York Islanders and Los Angeles Kings tied 2-2.

Ian Turnbull knocked down a clearing pass just inside the blue line and beat Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden with a slap shot at 18:36 of the third period to lift Toronto into a tie with the defending Stanley Cup champions.

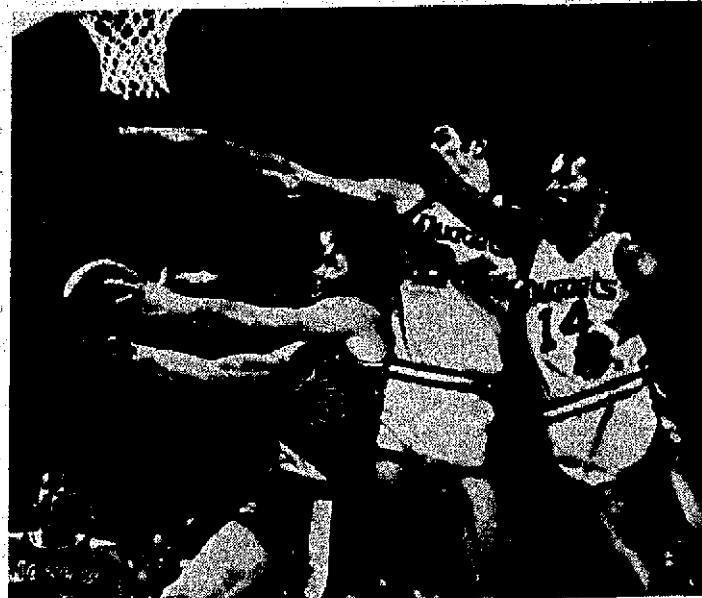

Walt McKechnie and Bill

Collins scored goals in the first 73 seconds of the second period to propel Washington over Atlanta. McKechnie's goal, with 31 seconds gone, broke a 1-1 tie and Collins followed 42 seconds later.

Bill Barber slipped in a 10-footer after grabbing a pass from Barry Dean early in the third period, boosting Philadelphia into a tie with Chicago.

Steve Vickers, benched just two games ago for not producing, scored four goals for the second time in his career as the New York Rangers whipped St. Louis.

Red Wings Nip Penguins

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings won the battle of the bruises, and with it, a hockey game against the Pittsburgh Penguins.

"We were aggressive, but a lot of guys were fighting for their lives," said Red Wing Coach Bobby Krumm, whose team defeated Pittsburgh 4-3 in a

"We got guys with talent who want to play, and that's a bonus anytime."

The Red Wings, who had eight new players in the lineup, played a physical brand of hockey that enabled them to overcome a 2-0 Pittsburgh lead in the first period.

"They played a good game, a good checking game," commented Penguin Coach Johnny Wilson, whose team was scored upon three times in the second period and never saw the lead again.

"We just threw it away in the second period. Our passes weren't accurate and we

The Red Wings' winning goal came on a power play led by rookie Reed Larson.

The University of Minnesota graduate put the game away midway in the third period when his shot from the right side hit Penguin goalie Denis Herron's glove and dropped into the net.

It was Larson's first goal in the National Hockey League.

The point put Detroit ahead 4-2, but it was necessary after Penguin Blair Chapman scored his second goal of the game four minutes later.

Nick Libbitt, Bill Lochead and Danny Grant scored Detroit's second-period goals. Brian Spencer scored Pittsburgh's other first period goal.

Detroit goalie Ron Low was called on to stop only 21 shots in the game, three of which got by him.

"We worked hard in training camp trying to cut the number of shots on goal against us," Krumm said. "We want to eliminate those 40 and 50 shots on goal per game. That sort of thing catches up on your goaltender."

Wilson, who said his team wasn't "physically or mentally ready" for Detroit, praised the work of his goalkeeper, Herron, who made several acrobatic saves in the second period and early in the third period to prevent a runaway.

"Herron played a good game, but we lost crucial faceoffs and struggled all night," he said.

Fast Start For Mohawks

FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Muskegon Mohawks, with help from players like Charlie Skjott, are off to a fast start in the International Hockey League, notching three victories in four games.

Skjott's unassisted goal at 2:12 in the second period broke open the game and led Muskegon to a 7-3 victory over Fort Wayne Wednesday night.

In other IHL action, the Dayton Gems defeated the Flint Generals 4-2. The Port Huron Flags defeated the Milwaukee Admirals 3-2.

In Fort Wayne, Skjott's goal cracked a 1-1 tie, sparking the Mohawks to score four more times. Both Skjott and Hector Marini scored two goals apiece for the Mohawks. Just seven seconds after Skjott's second goal, Neil Hawryliw put the puck in the net for Muskegon's final score in the third period.

Terry McDougall tied the game for Fort Wayne at 13:28 in the first period. But Skjott's goal put the Mohawks out in front and the Gems never caught up.

Muskegon is 3-1, but the loss dropped the Gems to 2-2.

The winning goal came while Milwaukee center Dan Kennedy was in the penalty box for roughing. Michel LaChance had boosted the Admirals into a 2-2 tie with his second slap shot goal of the night at 17:47 of the third period. After a scoreless first period, the Flags' Gary Russell scored, LaChance tied the score for Milwaukee and Brian Kinsella hit a rebound goal to put Port Huron ahead 2-1.

Port Huron is 2-1-1, while Milwaukee slipped to 0-2-1.

In Dayton, Peter Sturgeon's power play goal with eight minutes left in the game and Mark Izzard's insurance goal six minutes later lifted the Gems to victory.

Sturgeon's goal came on the Owl's only power play opportunity of the night. Then, after Flint applied pressure on Dayton goalie Gary Carr, Izzard clinched the win by scoring a two-on-one advantage with teammate Hank Taylor.

Joe Cantini, playing his first game for Flint since being sent down by Colorado of the National Hockey League last weekend, gave Flint a 2-0 lead in the first period with a pair of goals.

His first, an unassisted score, came at 7:39. He scored again three minutes later with just eight seconds left on a Dayton penalty.

BH Frosh Lose

Muskegon Heights handed Benton Harbor's freshmen football a 14-12 setback Wednesday at Filstrup Field. The Tiger Touchdowns came on a six-yard run by Cliff Reed and a 54-yard pass from Len Logan to Morris Perkins. Benton Harbor is now 2-1.

Golf Exemptions On Line

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Considerably more than a $3,000 first prize is at stake this week in the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

For a handful of players, their performance in the tournament that began Thursday will have a major effect on the conduct of their lives for the entire 1978 season.

As the last official event of the year, the Pensacola Open is the touring pros' last shot at a coveted exemption from qualifying for next year's tour. If they make the exemption, they can play in any regular tour event they want. If they miss, then they face the rigors and traumas of the Monday morning qualifying rounds, what they call "the Suicide Open," just to gain a spot in the tournament field.

"The first goal any player sets for himself is making the top 60 and getting that exemption," said John Mahaffey, "It's almost impossible to overemphasize the importance of having an exemption. It may be the most important thing on the tour; probably is the most important."

Mahaffey, slump-ridden and plagued by injuries most of the season, is in one of the two major races for an exemption. He's gunning for a position in the career top 50 money-winners. The other race involves the top 60 money-winners from the 1977 season. Both lists close with this tournament.

The current top 60 is unusually stable this season, with only a couple of players in the scramble for the No. 60 spot now held by Roger Maltbie with $1,462. Often, as many as 15 or 20 players come to the last tournament with a legitimate shot at the man in the No. 60 position.

Ed Sneed, 61st on the list, is recovering from surgery and isn't playing. Kermit Zarley, with $50,391, and Mike Hill, with $30,323, are next. As a tournament winner, Hill is exempt for most of 1978, but the veteran Zarley needs to win $1,072 more than Maltbie to go into the top 60 and get the exemption.

Mahaffey, who lost a playoff for the 1975 U.S. Open and led the 1976 American National championship for three rounds, has won only $7,430 this season.

He ranks 51st on the all-time money-winning list, however, and needs to climb one position to gain an exemption. Rod Funseth currently is No. 50 with $510,806. Mahaffey has $508,428. He needs to beat Funseth's winnings by $2,383 this week.

Jerry Pate, a winner last week in the Southern Open, was the favorite for the title in the 72-hole test over the 6,549-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course.

His chief opponents included Johnny Miller, defending champion Mark Hayes, former champion Lee Elder, PGA king Larry Wadkins, Arnold Palmer, Miller Barber and Ray Floyd, a two-time winner this season.

'Frail' Browner Heisman Candidate

ROSS BROWNER

NOTRE DAME — If opposing players could have their wish, they would have probably wished that Mrs. Geraldine Browner hadn't allowed her son Ross to play football.

"When I started playing football in junior high school," Ross reflects, "I was only 6-1 and weighed about 175 pounds. Mom once refused to let me play football because she thought I was too frail and would get hurt."

Well, it would be safe to say now that Ross has blossomed into a 6-3, 248-pound senior that Mrs. Browner doesn't mind him playing football. That's hardly "frail."

And it would be safe to say she doesn't worry about him getting hurt. Heck, she should worry that someone else will. Because, along with that impressive physique, Ross Browner can run the 40 in a not-too-shabby 4.65 seconds.

His size, strength and speed have come in very handy over the four years he has terrorized the opposition for Notre Dame. Unlike other players, Ross Browner didn't need too much time to make his presence felt on the Irish gridiron.

Indeed, it took him only 4:48 of his first game with the Irish back in 1973 to break through the line and block a Northwestern punt so hard that it bounced through the end zone.

His size and strength were never more apparent last year than when he sacked not only the Oregon quarterback but also two of his blockers.

And ask Tony Dorsett about Browner's speed. Last year when Notre Dame entertained Pittsburgh in a nationally-televised game, Dorsett broke through the Irish line for an apparent touchdown.

At least, it was apparent to everyone watching that Dorsett would score.

But it wasn't apparent to Ross Browner, who hurdled several blockers and, by using the proper angles, caught Dorsett from behind.

"I've never seen anyone go after a ball carrier like Ross did on that play," Irish defensive line coach Joe Yonto reflects. "He actually hurdled those players to get Dorsett and never lost stride."

"It was a super effort, but that's what you expect from a person like Ross. He doesn't know when to take it easy."

Browner has never taken it easy on the gridiron. Through this year's Army game, Ross Browner has registered 64 tackles for an amazing 435 minus yards, recovered 11 fumbles and blocked three kicks during his Notre Dame career. Each is a Notre Dame record.

It's no wonder that the Warren, Ohio, native finds himself having to fight off the blocks of two, sometimes three blockers in his never-ending search-and-destroy missions.

"It gets pretty frustrating sometimes," Browner admits, "because I want to get to the pesser."

But it has become more of a challenge, too, because in my way of thinking, I still have to get to the passer no matter how many blockers they put on me. That's my job."

And it's no wonder, therefore, that Ross Browner is a bonafide contender to become the first defensive lineman ever to win the Heisman Trophy.

"I guess it would be a symbol for all the linemen if I won the Heisman Trophy," Browner continues. "To me, it's an honor just to be in consideration."

"I'm always striving for better things. I've always dreamed of making something of myself. That's the way I was brought up."

"If I win the Heisman, I will feel that I have succeeded to this point in my life, but I won't have it made. I will still have other goals. That's why I've got to keep striving and striving."

And what if someone else wins it? Well, it won't bother Ross Browner one bit.

"Hey," he admits, "the Heisman Trophy is supposed to go to the top college football player, and I really think it will. Whoever is picked will be the right choice, I'm sure of that."

Ross Browner means it. You probably won't find a more sincere person in athletics anywhere.

"Like I've said, it would be an honor to win the Heisman," he concludes, "but if there is one thing I like to do, it's win games. Before I leave, I want to do everything I can for Notre Dame."

Now you can see why Mrs. Browner doesn't have to worry about Ross — on the field or off.

RINGER WON: This is the horse Cinzano who won the ninth race at Belmont Park Sept. 23 running as Lebon the New York Racing Association and the New York State Racing and Wagering Board said Tuesday. Both horses had been imported from Uruguay but Cinzano had been reported destroyed earlier in the year after an accident. An unidentified bettor collected $87,000. (AP Wirephoto)

Tom Seaver Eyes Broadcast Career

NEW YORK (AP) — After his success as a World Series television color commentator, Cincinnati Reds pitcher Tom Seaver says he wants to eventually phase his baseball career into a sports broadcast journalism job.

That doesn't mean he's through with baseball — not at all. "That's at least five years away, maybe more," said the 21-game winner who thinks the Reds can recapture control of the National League's Western Division next year.

Seaver is tired of being asked why the Reds didn't catch the Dodgers this year. He shrugs that off with "That's a very legitimate question."

Seaver said all three major networks have expressed interest in hiring him "when I can go to work and not be a part-timer."

"But I want to go in as a broadcaster, a journalist, not an ex-jock or an ex-pitcher," he said. "I'm aware that athletes have to start over in the middle of their lives, so I'm trying to make my careers overlap."

On Nov. 1, he starts filming 10 segments around the country. Seaver has lined up such stars as Bob Feller, Joe Louis, Ted Williams, Gordie Howe and Mark Spitz for interviews in which their careers will be discussed. Reggie Jackson of the Yankees did the series last year.

"Journalistically, it will be fun for me," Seaver said. "It will be real interviewing." He studied journalism at Southern Cal while majoring in public relations. His television career began with a sports show on a New York station a couple of years ago. Then he got his big break as a color man on the Series and did what most of the country apparently thought was an outstanding job.

"I've had comments from all over," Seaver said in an interview after the Series. "And not one has been negative."

"I wanted to cover it as a journalist with expertise in baseball," he said. "I thought I could bring insight by saying what a pitcher should be doing and how a third baseman makes a play. Howard Cosell helped me quite a bit. I told him I was open to all suggestions and a couple of times he told me to quit rehearsing, to be spontaneous. Then he said make it short and simple."

What about the criticism Cosell took for his Series coverage?

"It seems to be the 'in' thing to do to jump all over him," Seaver said. "I don't know that much about journalism and broadcasting so I'm talking as a rookie. But, sure, he gets down about it."

Seaver, 32, and his wife, Nancy, live with their two daughters in a converted barn in Connecticut in the winter. They've bought a condominium on a golf course in Cincinnati for summers.

Does he regret his trade from the New York Mets? "I feel for some of the friends I had there but I'm very happy to be in Cincinnati," he said. "If I had an opportunity to go back and change everything — no way would I do it."

And does he have five good years left in his arm?

"It's not my arm, it's my downstairs in the legs," Seaver said. "That's what I was trying to explain about Don Gullett during the Series. Pitching is all in the legs. You've got to put the pressure there or it winds up in your arm and shoulder."

His assessment of his Series work: "I was nervous because I know I'm responsible for everything I say. But I did a lot better job than I thought I was going to do."

MOTORISTS LINE UP TO BUY IT

Maine Family's Kraut A Legend

By JON HALVORSEN
Associated Press Writer
WALDOBORO, Maine (AP) —
"Kraut's ready."

Around here, that terse notice printed in a couple of newspapers can mean only one thing. The famous Morse sauerkraut, sold throughout the country, is in production yet another year.

On Saturdays, motorists line the road past the Morse farm in nearby North Waldo to buy buckets of the stuff from the small, cinder-block building where the sauerkraut has been "working" for seven to 10 days in big barrels.

For more than 60 years, the Morse family has been making sauerkraut in the Waldoboro area, which was settled by German immigrants. Virgil Morse Sr. started the business in the early 1900s, making kraut only for his own family until he was asked to "cut in a barrel" for a local store.

When he died in 1963, he was succeeded as head of the business by his son Virgil Jr., and when Virgil Jr. died in 1969, his widow Ethelyn took over.

The Morse operation has always been a family business on a modest scale — only three full-time workers assist Mrs. Morse — but it's a legend among sauerkraut lovers.

Mrs. Morse, 62, a warm, outgoing woman, sells her kraut to several Maine supermarkets and ships it to customers in nearly every state.

"Her product is the real product," says Joe Ricci, general manager of Jacob Wirth's, the oldest German restaurant in Boston, which has ordered tons of Morse kraut for many years. "It has taste, texture and everything else," he adds, and unlike canned sauerkraut, "it doesn't mush up."

Sauerkraut is simply chopped cabbage allowed to ferment, or "work," in a brine of its own juice with salt added. The Morse recipe includes sugar, but the exact mixture of salt and sugar and any other ingredients has remained a family secret.

Mrs. Morse says she plants Penn State or Danish Baldhead cabbage in the spring — "a hard, firm, white winter cabbage." They're planted far apart so they grow big — 15 to 20 pounds each — and after "an awful lot of tender, loving care," the cabbages are harvested in the fall and stored in cellars. From about eight acres of cabbage planted this year, Mrs. Morse expects to produce about 60 tons of kraut.

A fresh batch is turned out each week from late September through March. The shredded cabbage is compressed into oak barrels, the secret mixture is added and the lids are weighted down with stones. After seven to 10 days, foam has worked its way out of the holes of the lids and the kraut is ready.

Mrs. Morse delivers the kraut to stores in her pickup truck and ships it in wooden buckets or plastic pails to out-of-state customers. The minimum order is 15 pounds at 40 cents a pound plus the cost of the container and shipping.

"You can keep it in your refrigerator in glass jars. Or it can be frozen," she says. "We make a few more tons each year," she says. "But you know, you can just be so good, make so much. I'd rather make a little good kraut than a lot of poor kraut."

Car Lover Jilted; Wins $12,000

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A West Orange man who claimed he suffered mental anguish because his imported sports car needed excessive repairs has won a $12,000 civil judgment against the Ford Motor Co. Joseph Lemaldi, 30, testified that the $12,000 Pantera he purchased in 1973 needed repeated repairs and that he failed to gain satisfaction from the limited-production auto produced by Ford in Italy. An eight-member jury Tuesday awarded Lemaldi $8,000 for "pain and mental anguish" and $4,000 for breach of warranty.

Rudd To Leave CBS Morning News Anchor

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hughes Rudd, formerly of the Kansas City Star, the Minneapolis Tribune and the Rock Springs, Wyo., Daily Rocket, becomes formerly of the "CBS Morning News" anchor team next Friday.

He's giving up his co-anchor job — but not appearances on the show — at his own request. Next Monday, Dick Threlkeld, who has worked for CBS in Vietnam, San Francisco and Rome, takes over.

Rudd, the amiable, gravel-voiced delegate from Waco, Tex., thinks that four years and three months of pre-dawn reveilles are enough. Now, it's time to rise with the sun, not before.

"I'm just terminally fatigued," he said, not sounding that way in a phone chat from New York, where he's been rising at one a.m. and reporting for work at 2:30 a.m. since July 1973.

Rudd, with CBS since 1969 in jobs ranging from news writer in New York to correspondent in Berlin and bureau chief in Moscow, said he originally asked for reassignment back to Western Europe.

But the brass wanted him to continue doing those sometimes sardonic, sometimes whimsical essays with which he ends each day's show.

So he'll do them live the next two weeks and help Threlkeld break in, then appear both live and on tape. He'll stay based in New York, but the deal is, he can blow town occasionally and essay from elsewhere.

"I hate New York and hate being nailed to it," emphasized Rudd, who also will do documentaries now. The first commences in mid-November, the subject being newspapers in America.

He said the project will take him to Miami, Phoenix, San Francisco and perhaps even Fun City.

"Now, that'll be fun — if I don't get shot," laughed the newspaperman, last shot — in the arm — by a German fighter plane's bullets while flying an Army spotter plane in World War II.

Inquiries were made as to any regrets he ever agreed to get up so early for so long to do the "CBS Morning News."

"No, in a way it's been fascinating," he drawled. "It's been good for my professional career at CBS, no question. You get to be better known by far than when you're just a field hand."

"Which means," he mused, considering the side benefits, "I can get $2,000 for a speech before the Rotary Club instead of $150. Also, I didn't know whether I could do this kind of thing (news anchoring)."

"And actually I knew, I guess, within a couple of weeks I could do it — and I should of quit while I was ahead."

Rescue Tale Recounted By Tugboat's Skipper

By GEORGE VARGO

The Lake Michigan Car Ferry Transportation Co. was a subsidiary of the Wisconsin & Michigan Railroad Co. and operated on two routes on Lake Michigan for a decade and a half at the turn of the century. The main line was from South Chicago to Peshtigo Harbor on Green Bay, a route maintained during the full 15 years of the

What Your History Teacher Never Told You

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — A history professor and a former student at Central Michigan University have come up with a book to "jazz up" conventional history classes. Called the "Great American Quiz Book: 1,001 Incredible Questions, Facts and Answers about American History," it looks at the unimportant aspects of history "that are still fascinating in themselves." Prof. William Bulger said, Bulger and former student Frank Ragner spent six years dredging up such trivia as:

—President William Taft was so fat he reportedly got stuck in the White House bathtub.

—Adolf Hitler once claimed he inherited 8,880 acres of land in Colorado.

—The only member of the Michigan legislature to also be a "king" was King James Jesse Strang, the Beaver Island Mormon leader whose followers made him monarch.

—George Washington gave the shortest presidential inaugural speech on record — 134 words.

Bulger said he hopes the book "will be of some interest to history teachers at all levels to help them jazz up their courses a little."

company's existence.

A cross-lake route to haul rail cars between Benton Harbor and Manitowoc was tried during 1887, but did not prove successful and was not continued.

In all, 14 units were owned, chartered or contracted for by the company. It had 8 wooden barges which hauled freight cars. Its No. 1 wooden car ferry barge, 310 feet long and 44 feet wide, had a capacity of 28 freight cars. This barge was sold in 1910 and foundered on Lake Huron off Thunder Bay in November of 1918.

No. 2, wooden car ferry barge a sister to Barge No. 1, capsized in Chicago harbor in September of 1906 and was later abandoned.

No. 3, wooden car ferry barge foundered off Long Point in Lake Erie, September, 1900, one of the most dangerous places in Lake Erie. No. 3 and No. 4 wooden car ferry barge, a sister of No. 3, were lost together. Both barges were on a charter trip in low of the tug S.M. Fischer.

Pere Marquette 16 steam, wooden ferry, chartered by the company and later named Harriet B., went down in a collision off Two Harbors, Minn. in 1922, wooden barge "A", apparently a scow not a car ferry, was used to haul stone for breakwaters. It foundered at Racine after breaking in two while loading a cargo of stone.

Many tugs were chartered and owned by the company, among them the J.C. Ames wooden tug, bought in 1896 and sold in 1908 to Nau Tug Line of Green Bay. It was abandoned due to age in 1923.

The S.M. Fischer, a steel tug built for the line, was the most powerful tug on the lakes. It was built in 1896 at Toledo. In 1911 she was sold to the Reid Wrecking Company of Sarnia, Ontario, and then resold to the French government in 1917 and never did return to the United States.

The Fischer towed barges all over the lake from South Chicago to Benton Harbor and Green Bay.

The E.G. Crosby wooden harbor tug, built in 1892 at Grand Haven, was purchased for docking the barges at South Chicago. Later it was sold to the Great Lakes Towing Company. When she was abandoned in 1914, her engines went into the steel tug Illinois.

Arctic, a wooden harbor tug built for the Goodrich Transportation Company, was contracted to handle the barges at Manitowoc. She was abandoned in 1930 after 48 years in the Goodrich fleet. Violet H. Raber, wooden harbor tug built at Manitowoc for lumbering interests at Peshtigo Harbor, was used to handle the car ferry barges at the port.

Andy, a wooden harbor tug built by Heath at Benton Harbor in 1898 for Graham & Morton Transportation Company, was contracted to dock the car ferry barges at Benton Harbor. She was one of the best known tugs at the local port.

Andy towed many passenger ships in and out of the harbor here. She was a rugged hero of many a lake storm, and behaved well in an emergency when called out on rescue work. Many local sailors were among her crew and stories tell of her fine maneuvering in the local harbor. She found her last days around on Lake Superior at Duluth. She towed wooden pilings for the piers at St. Joseph, and many a lad rode the poles as they were towed by this tug. Her days were pretty rough and steady when called out to do work on wrecks and hazardous duty. She was, indeed, a good and graceful servant built by skilled workmen at the Heath Yard here. Many fine tugs came out of this yard and spent their days in many ports on the Great Lakes.

It was in 1894, two car ferry barges in low of the tug Fischer arrived here from South Chicago and were towed up the canal where each one was loaded with four rows of loaded freight cars (50 in all). Three days later she left for Manitowoc, Wis. As this was an entirely new move in transportation for this section, many people were out along the piers to see this new car ferry service, which then was to make the Twin Cities the car ferry port of Lake Michigan.

Everything was favorable for this line of service. However, the service did not last long as bulk freighters began to cut into this trade. The car ferry service was started by the Big Four, the Wisconsin Central, and Chicago and Northwestern railroads. It was a forerunner of the present day car ferry service operated now on Upper Lake Michigan.

Here's Another Vargo Account

EDITOR'S NOTE: Another true account of the ships and men in the heyday of shipping on the Great Lakes is written by George Vargo, 1499 Jennings Ave., Benton Harbor. Vargo, a retired sailor, is an amateur historian of those days.

The death notice of Captain Fred J. Johnson, 79, in Seattle, Washington, on May 17, 1949, tells of the story of his receiving a congressional life-saving medal for saving of 14 lives aboard the Fischer tug. Born in Racine, Wisconsin, he shipped out as a sailor on the Great Lakes, and worked himself up to Captain of various ships and was skipper of the Fischer in later years. He was licensed to pilot ships on all the Great Lakes and oceans.

In 1900 he was master of the steel tug, S.M. Fischer, and on November of that year, on Lake Erie he saved the lives of 14 men in a heavy gale. They were members of the two ferries of the Lake Michigan Car Ferry Line the Fischer was towing. The Citation said: "In recognition of your gallant conduct in saving life from the perils of sea, there is herewith a silver medal transmitted by acts of Congress on July 1, 1902."

CARFERRY BARGE AND TUGS: The motorless car ferry barge No. 4, of Lake Michigan Car Ferry Transportation Co., enters St. Joseph harbor, probably in 1897, towed by seagoing tug S.M.

Fischer (left) and local harbor tug, Andy (far right). The Fischer and No. 4 barge were involved in gallant rescue in Lake Erie storm.

"A fierce storm overtook you, raising a very heavy sea, which swept all three vessels fore and aft and caused the deeply laden barges to leak freely. The wind soon reached a velocity of more than 70 miles an hour and by 3 o'clock the barges were in a dangerous condition. Within a half-hour, the heavy steel towing hawser, 1 1/2 inches in diameter, gave way and both barges quickly fell off into the trough of the sea, rolling with great violence. The part of their cargo carried no regard for the safety of your own ship and the lives of those on board.

"First you directed your efforts to barge No. 4, which was in most distress. The danger of losing your own vessel by collision was so great that in the beginning you sought to take off the men by means of lines which would be thrown from a reasonably safe distance."

"Several ineffectual attempts, however, demonstrated that you could not in that way succeed. If the men were to be saved at all you must hazard everything by running so close alongside that they could leap from one vessel to the other. Again your humanity and courage proved equal to the test. Repeatedly you ran the Fischer down to barge No. 4, and sheered so close to graze her broadside, while the seven men composing her crew, two or three at a time, leaped for the tug, and without the loss of a single life were safely assisted on board.

"Then turning to barge No. 3, in the midst of a blinding squall, you repeated the same hazardous maneuvers with the same happy results, and your perilous work was accomplished. The recollections of it cannot fail to be a delightful memory as long as you live."

Thus is the story of the brave men on the inland seas of long ago. But one way the public and local children and grandchildren can read about those old days is through the local newspaper which publishes those stories of those days of long ago. Most of the men are gone from the scene, as well as the old ships, tugs, steamers and crowds etc. The tankers, lumber barges, are gone and only a few limestone ships come here, a port which was one of the busiest in those long ago days.

The old St. Joseph river still runs on with a scattering of outboarders and fishermen on their pleasant trips.

near bow of Barge No. 4 is the Arctic. The picture was taken by a Rev. Dowling.

U.S. Trade Deficit Drops By $1 Billion

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. balance-of-trade picture improved in September when the United States sold more goods abroad than in any month in history, the Commerce Department said today.

However, the U.S. trade balance still showed a deficit for the month. But the deficit of $1.7 billion was a sharp drop from the $2.7 billion deficit for August and the smallest since a $1.2 billion deficit in May.

For the year, the United States has bought $18.2 billion more in foreign goods than it has sold abroad. The deficit could reach a record $30 billion for the year, administration officials have said.

The record exports for September totaled $10.9 billion, surpassing the $10.4 billion recorded in December 1976, the previous high. Most of the increase was in machinery and transport equipment, such as autos, manufactured goods, chemicals and food and live animals.

While exports rose 14.2 per cent, imports increased by about 3.3 per cent, mainly because of more imports of petroleum products.

The Carter administration has said almost all of the trade imbalance this year is caused by U.S. imports of oil from the Middle East. On his current Middle East trip, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has been trying to persuade all exporters to keep prices down, saying it is in their best interests.

Out of $12.6 billion in imports, petroleum accounted for $3.7 billion, an increase from $3.3 billion in August.

A growing trade deficit can often take away jobs from American workers and have a slackening effect on the economy. But U.S. officials say other countries have been unable to afford American products as the U.S. economy has improved more rapidly than the economy of purchasing countries.

Among exports, all categories increased in September, except aircraft, soybeans, grain sorghum and a few miscellaneous commodities.

Machinery and transport equipment rose by $508.3 million to $4.7 billion, with nearly half of the increase coming from motor vehicles and parts.

Chemical exports increased 17 per cent to $1.1 billion, and mineral fuels such as coal and petroleum rose 24 per cent to $388.4 million.

Fruit and live animals showed increases of 8 per cent to $1.2 billion.

However, the improvement in exports followed a sharp decline, from $10.1 billion in July to $9.6 billion in August.

Teenager's Dad Seeks Damages

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — The father of a Bangor teenager who was killed when his car was struck by another vehicle in 1976 has filed a suit in Van Buren Circuit Court seeking damages against the driver of the other car.

Named as defendants in the suit brought by David Swanner are Dale Bartholomew, the driver of the other car, and his wife, Viola, both of South Haven. Damages in any amount over $10,000 are being sought.

According to Covert Township police, Teddy Steve Swanner, 18, was killed on Oct. 26, 1976, when a car he was driving east on CR-375 pulled into the path of Bartholomew's car. Bartholomew was headed north on M-140.

Police quoted witnesses as saying that Swanner did not stop for a stop sign.

The suit alleges Bartholomew was driving at an excessive rate of speed and failed to take steps which could have avoided the collision.

Man Bound Over In Berrien Cour On Charge Of Resisting Arrest

Sam Michelle, 28, of 252 Bellview St., Benton Harbor was bound over to Berrien Circuit Court Wednesday on a charge of resisting arrest.

Two other charges of assault with a deadly weapon were dismissed by Fifth District Judge John T. Hammond during preliminary hearings.

One charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Betty Jo Davis was dismissed when she testified Michelle hadn't pointed a gun at her Sept. 27 at 135 Apple Ave., Benton Harbor.

Assistant Prosecutor Sent Beatty said he moved for dismissal of the other charge of assault with a deadly weapon when witness Robert Bolton failed to appear in court. Michelle had been accused of pointing a pistol at Bolton also on Sept. 27.

Beatty said the prosecutor's office will continue to investigate witnesses' accounts.

In other Fifth District Court cases Wednesday, four people were bound over to Circuit Court on felony charges and 16 were sentenced for misdemeanors.

Douglas "Little" Pletcher, 23, and Douglas "Big Doug" McDonald, 31, were bound over to Circuit Court. They are charged with an Oct. 1 break-in at the Quick Mart. Bonds were set at $5,000 each.

George Miles, 25, of 270 Urdank Ave., Benton Township waived examination and was bound over to Circuit Court. He is charged with breaking and entering the Barentsen Candy Co., Benton Harbor July 20. He continued free on $2,500 bail.

Benjamin K. Jones, 18, Wee-Chuk Road, New Troy, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for petty larceny, stealing an American government textbook from a locker at River Valley High School. Two men were sentenced for conservation violations yesterday; one for spearing a salmon and the other for attempting to take a salmon with a shotgun.

Rayburn Bonee, 31, of 322

Walnut, Sister Lakes, paid fines and costs of $73 for spearing a salmon in Pipestone Creek Oct. 20.

Possession of marijuana — Earnest J. Harper, 28, of Detroit, 10 days in jail and $230 or 150 days in jail total; Leo L. Mulkory, 35, of Detroit, 10 days in jail and $255 or 180 days in jail total; Michael V. Dabney, 20, of Detroit, 10 days in jail and $155; Lynda M. Creating a disturbance — Pauline Blackwell, 20, of 816 N. Fifth St., Niles, 30 days in jail; Kenneth Bean, 20, of 208 Bellview St., Benton Harbor, $37.

A charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than murder, was dismissed yesterday. Freed was James A. Kemp, 23, of Chester, Ind. No witnesses appeared at Kemp's preliminary hearing. Judge John T. Hammond noted in the court file.

New TV Series Is 'Deadly Dull'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Best of Families," a much-publicized, eight-part series, premieres on public TV tonight in most areas. The series covers the period 1880-1900 and is set in New York City.

Taped in that hamlet, it uses three fictional families representing the upper, middle and lower classes to illustrate an era of profound change in America's technology, politics and society.

It was made by the Children's Television Workshop, which says the project cost $6,150,000. Seems high, considering that 13 episodes of "Six Million Dollar Man" would total about $5.3 million.

But "Families," whose costly, meticulously researched costumes and sets were created from scratch, isn't intended as throwaway pop entertainment. It aims at educating as well as entertaining.

Indeed, 14 advisers, mainly historians, worked on it, as did a full-time team of six researchers. And the noted actor John Houseman was hired to host it, to explain each chapter's significance.

All this care is mighty admirable.

But honest to Pete, the first half of tonight's two-hour opener struck me as so deadly dull it seemed wise to skip Hour Two, lest that one cause the mortal sin of snoring in the screening room.

Loring Mandel, one of six writers doing various episodes of the series, wrote the premiere, which wanders back and forth from family to family, introducing them and getting their crises under way.

Our lower-class folks are the devoutly Catholic Raffertys. The clan's head and his two grown sons are barely making ends meet as laborers on a building project. Suddenly it goes bust, and they're out of work.

The upper class is the Wheeler family. It also runs into fiscal woe — but only because the head of the family disregards his banker's advice to sell his stock in a railroad which now is in bankruptcy.

The in-between set is represented by the Baldwins and ambitious James Lathrop. He's a young engineer-architect who, like the Rafferty men, is thrown out of work by the collapse of the building project.

He seeks help from his middle-class minister, Dr. Frederick Baldwin, who is plugged into New York's Protestant power structure. The reverend also has a comely daughter, a Vassar graduate.

She catches Lathrop's eye in church, setting the stage for wooing and wedding.

The show also has important aspects of New York life in 1880 — Tammany Hall power, Irish politics and the start of what men now call women's lib.

Shingles Lay Her Low Nancy Kissinger Ailing

Q: I've missed seeing Nancy Kissinger in the news. She's usually a gadabout along with husband Henry. — M.A., Short Hills, N.J.

A: Nancy has been suffering from shingles, which has laid her low. Shingles is a viral infection of the nerve endings and causes painful blistering and inflammation of the skin. In its milder forms, shingles is quite uncomfortable. In its more acute forms it can be debilitating.

Q: Jane Fonda and Vanessa Redgrave are both such powerful personalities as well as Rockefeller's neighbors in his elegant Fifth Avenue apartment building. They're praying he stays out of politics because they hated the constant parade of reporters, photographers and TV cameramen camped outside the building.

Q: I know that the old "Honeymooners" crowd —

Jackie Gleason, Art Carney, and Audrey Meadows — are doing a special of the show. When will that be on? — J.T., Indianapolis.

A: ABC has scheduled two "Honeymooners" specials, one for Christmas and one for Valentine's Day. The taping has been delayed a bit because Art strong actresses. Did their personalities collide when they made that new movie, "Julia"? P.J., Cincinnati.

A: Not at all. Both were attracted to the project, based on an excerpt from Lillian Hellman's book "Pentimento," because it shows two women supporting each other. The two also admire each other off screen. In fact, Jane's daughter by Roger Vadim was named after Vanessa. Interestingly enough, the character played by Vanessa in the movie has a daughter named after the character played by Jane. Art imitates life — again.

MORE JOY: Alex Comfort, who had such joy from his "Joy of Sex" and "More Joy of Sex," has discovered another market for his wares. He's working on another sequel which will be called either "Junior Joy" or "One Plus One." What next?

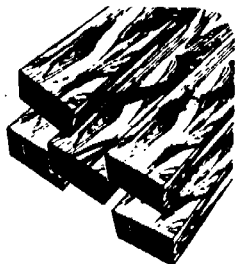

NEW LOOK: Watch "The Hollywood Squares" on TV and see if you don't think Paul Lynde looks wonderful. Yes, he's lost weight but has had his eyes and chin nipped and tucked by a plastic surgeon.

NEW TWOSOME: Tom Hoving, former director to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, may be going into business with Nelson Rockefeller. Hoving's deal with Walter Annenberg, former ambassador to Great Britain, has fizzled and we hear that Hoving might set up a corporation to sell prints of paintings from the world-famous Rockefeller collection. ## Drug Raid Seeks 39 Salesmen

BY NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Raiders led by the Berrien Crime and Drug Enforcement Unit this morning began serving warrants on 39 suspects on charges that included selling heroin and a wide variety of other drugs.

Tom Exum, unit commander, said the raid was centered in the Benton Harbor area. Alleged "small businessmen" of the drug trade rather than "kingpins" are being arrested in this raid, Exum said. Few of those arrested are charged with second offenses.

Police from 13 agencies were assisting the Crime Unit. The 39 people face 58 charges, Exum said. Charges involve delivery of heroin, phenylhydrazine (PCP), amphetamines, methamphetamine, pentobarbital, diazepam, hashish and marijuana. A few people also are charged with violation of pharmacy laws and one, in addition to facing a drug charge, is accused of illegal liquor sales, Exum said.

Exum said the warrants were issued Tuesday and Wednesday by Berrien District Court Judge Ronald J. Taylor. Warrants were authorized by Chief Assistant Prosecutor John Jeffery Long and Assistant Prosecutors Wilbur Schillinger and Thomas Cozon.

The last large scale drug raid in Berrien County was launched from Niles May 18. Most of the people arrested in that raid were residents of southern Berrien County.

According to Exum, police from the following agencies helped drug enforcement officers serve the warrants:

St. Joseph, St. Joseph Township, Watervliet, Eau Claire, Benton Harbor, Benton Township, Berrien Sheriff's, Berrien Springs-Oronoko Township, Buchanan, Niles, Niles Township, and Michigan State Police Niles and Benton Harbor posts.

As of 9:30 a.m. today, the following were in custody, according to the drug unit:

Randy Roethel, 20, of 979 Wedgewood Road, St. Joseph Township, charged with delivery of amphetamines.

Kirt Ullig, 21, of 774 Lynwood Road, St. Joseph Township, charged with delivery of amphetamines and delivery of marijuana.

Dennis Hill, 17, of 1637 Grove Ave., Benton Township, charged with delivery of THC. THC is a derivative of marijuana.

Deb Landis, 23, no address, charged with delivery of amphetamines.

Jeff Leighty, 21, of 1107 1/2 Lake Blvd., St. Joseph, charged with delivery of THC and delivery of PCP.

John Lee, 25, of 784 Ogden Ave., Benton Harbor, accused of delivery of amphetamines.

Paulette Lee, 28, of Benton Harbor, charged with two counts of selling liquor without a license and delivery of valium.

Doug K. Miller, 18, of 903 Lions Park Drive, St. Joseph, on a charge of delivery of amphetamines.

Samuel A. Blanks, 27, of 340 Broadway, Benton Harbor, accused of two counts of delivery of amphetamines.

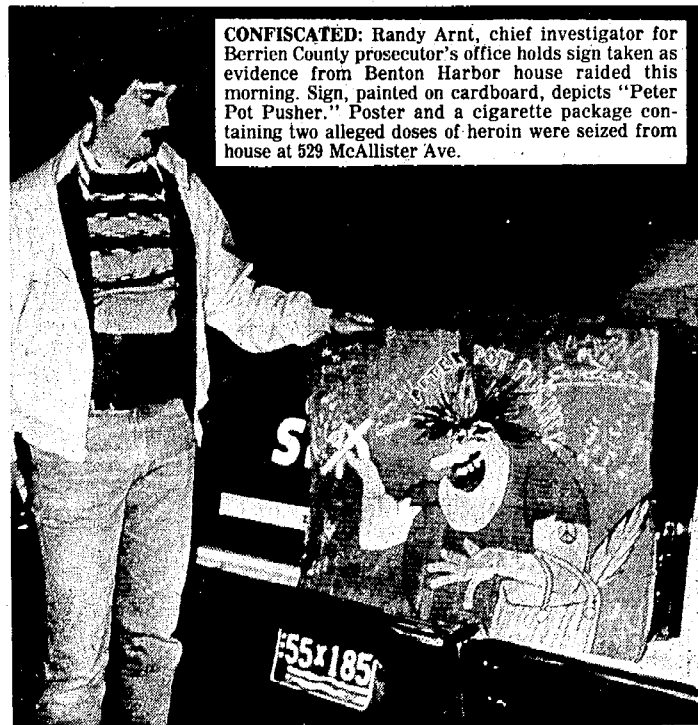

Mike Boyer, 21, of 1447 St. Thomas St., Benton Heights, charged with delivery of PCP.

Gordon Cartwright, 22, of Hagar Shores, accused of delivery of heroin.

Preston M. Deloney, 20, of 529 McAllister Ave., Benton Harbor, charged with delivery of heroin. He was also charged with receiving and concealing stolen property, a pistol he allegedly had when arrested.

George Hamrick, of 515 Huron St., Niles, accused of delivering amphetamines.

CONFISCATED: Randy Arnt, chief investigator for Berrien County prosecutor's office holds sign taken as evidence from Benton Harbor house raided this morning. Sign, painted on cardboard, depicts "Peter Pot Pusher." Poster and a cigarette package containing two alleged doses of heroin were seized from house at 529 McAllister Ave.

Court Will Send Buchanan A Judge

By JOE HERMAN
Staff Writer

Berrien County Fifth District Court has decided to resume hearing small claims cases once a month in Buchanan, according to Todd Barton, Fifth District Court administrator.

Buchanan filed a lawsuit against the Berrien County Board of Commissioners and judges of the county's Fifth District Court on Oct. 6 seeking to establish a permanent district court seat at Buchanan and halt construction of a south county courthouse at Niles. An injunction to block the courthouse construction was denied in Berrien Circuit Court last week, but the suit remains to be heard.

Barton said the decision to send a judge to Buchanan was made shortly after the suit was filed. Barton noted that small claims cases — those involving $500 or less — were handled on a similar basis from 1968 to 1973. The district court decided to discontinue the service because of the small case load there.

Permanent district court locations are in St. Joseph and Niles. Barton said Judge John Jwanik, from the Niles office, will hear the cases at the Junior Achievement building in Buchanan one Thursday each month beginning with the first small claims request.

"If there is a demand for this service, we'll find out now," said Barton. "If there isn't, I won't hesitate to recommend that we discontinue the service."

District court records show that only 84 cases were handled at Buchanan from 1969 to 1973, and only one case was heard during the final year of that period.

Buchanan City Manager Robert Faulhaber said he was "very pleased" that the district court service would be offered, but did not know what effect the decision would have on the city's lawsuit.

Rail Ride Outing Is Nov. 6

LAKESIDE — Southwestern Michigan residents are invited to join with Indiana and Illinois supporters of the South Shore Electric passenger train service for an outing on Sunday, Nov. 6. The day will begin at 12:25 p.m. Michigan time with a tour of the South Shore maintenance plant at Michigan City, according to Jane Adams, a member of the organization.

The tour will be followed by a bus excursion to the International Friendship Gardens in Michigan City, the Steam Show at Hession, Ind., and the Runkhizer Winery near Hession for wine, cheese and homemade bread. Buses will arrive at Hudson Lake in time to catch the South Shore Electric for a return trip to Michigan City, concluding at 6:20 p.m.

The outing is sponsored by South Shore Recreation, a group of private citizens formed to save passenger service on the last inter-urban electric train in the country.

A charge of $5.00 will cover bus transportation and wine and cheese. Train fare is extra and a box lunch may be purchased.

For reservations or further information call Jane Adams at Lakeside, 468-0762.

Teamsters Win At South Haven

BY TOM RENNER

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — City of South Haven employees who work for the board of public utilities, the street department and on the clerical staff in city hall voted Wednesday to affiliate with Teamsters Local 214.

The employees voted 32 to 4 to join the Teamsters during an election conducted by the Michigan Employee Relations Commission.

The employees sought the afiliation after labor negotiations with the city through an independent union, the Independent Municipal Employees Union of South Haven, were unsuccessful.

The employees staged a one week strike in July after negotiations for a new contract stalled. The contract expired April 15.

Certification of the election by the state is expected to take 10 days after which negotiations are to resume.

Berrien Unemployment Lowest In Three Years

Berrien County's unemployment rate for September was 6.7 percent — lowest in three years — according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission. While unemployment was dropping, there also were declines in employment and the labor force. MESC said these were caused by seasonal job cuts and students leaving the labor force to return to school.

Berrien had an estimated 71,200 employed in September and 5,100 unemployed. In August, there were 71,700 employed and 5,200 unemployed for an unemployment rate of 6.8 per cent. The low unemployment rate three years ago was 6.4 percent in October, 1974.

While manufacturing and non-manufacturing employment dropped from August to September, government jobs increased 300 in September to a total of 8,800. The increase was entirely in local government hiring and was attributed to jobs funded by the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

Last month's total estimated employment in Berrien was 3,700 more than September, 1976, when the unemployment rate was 9.9 per cent. Biggest gainers in employment from September, 1976, were durable goods industries up 800 and retail trade 700.

BROTHER ATTORNEYS: Paul Jancha (left) moved for admission to State Bar of Michigan of his brother, Rick, before Judge Julian Hughes in Berrien Circuit Court Wednesday. Rick Jancha, 25, of South Bend, is associate with Attorney David Weisman in South Bend, having been admitted to Indiana bar earlier this month. He graduated from Alma College and received law degree from University of Notre Dame. Paul Jancha is member of St. Joseph law firm of Bleich, Peterson, and Jancha. Both are natives of Mason, Mich. (Staff photo)

Legion Disease Progress Seen

ATLANTA (AP) — In the 15 months since an unknown disease struck an American Legion convention in Philadelphia and claimed 29 lives, researchers have found clues to diagnose it more quickly and at least some methods of treatment.

"Erythronycin is a very good drug" for treating what is known as "Legionnaires disease," Dr. David Fraser said in discussing research at the national Center for Disease Control. "I think we're a big step further than we were last summer in knowing what drugs to recommend."

WOULD CHARGE PARENTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House-passed bill aimed at the child pornography trade would penalize parents who knowingly allow their children to be used by others for pornography or prostitution as well as penalize those who used them.

Stocks Continue To Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, riding the momentum of Wednesday's strong rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 1.73 to 815.14 in the first half hour.

Gainers took a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the rally was fueled by the assertion of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns that the Fed would stick with its goal of curbing inflation by restraining the growth of the money supply.

They also noted encouragement over resistance from some leading California banks to the latest increase in the prime lending rate from 7½ to 7¾ per cent.

Dow Chemical was the early volume leader among NYSE issues, up ¼ at 27½.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average jumped 11.87 to 813.41 for its best gain since it picked up 13.06 points last April 12.

Advances outnumbered declines by about a 5-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume hit a three month high of 24.86 million shares against 23.59 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .55 to 50.41.

Exchange Seat's Prestige Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — Before you put all the money Aunt Esther left you into some hot stock, consider this Wall Street portent: it now costs more to sit your own taxicab in New York City than to own your very own New York Stock Exchange seat.

From a 1968 high of $515,500, the price of the prestigious Big Board seat was driven down Wednesday to a new low of $55,500.

At the same time, the fair market price of a taxi medallion — the limited number of cab licenses issued by the city — shot up to a record $48,000.

Earlier this week, a seat on the less prestigious American Stock Exchange was sold for the bargain basement price of $21,000 — or two Annex seats for the price of one taxi medallion with something left over for lunch at Delmonico's.

How did all of this happen?

The constitution of the exchange limits the number of seats to 1,366. Similarly, the number of taxi medallions was limited to 11,787 in 1937 to clear away some of the 30,000 taxicabs that clogged city streets.

The law of supply and demand sent the price of taxi medallions skyrocketing 14 percent since March when the city permitted a 13 per cent fare increase. Meanwhile, the price of a seat on the exchange has plummeted to reflect a depressed stock market.

If a person wants to buy a medallion he must join a waiting list kept by authorized brokers who sell medallions when they are put up for sale. The current down payment is $30,000.

To buy a seat on the New York Stock Exchange is a lengthy process of petitioning the Big Board's admissions office, passing a written examination, undergoing a background check, and putting down 20 percent of the seat's price. Like stocks themselves, the seats are sold through the exchange according to "bid" and "asked" prices.

Bethlehem Reports Big Loss

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest steelmaker, recorded a third quarter net loss of $477 million, the biggest quarter loss ever by an American firm.

The loss, announced Wednesday, is equivalent to $10.92 per share and was more than 10 times greater than the net profit of $45.5 million, or $1.04 a share, earned in the same period last year.

The largest quarter loss previously recorded by a U.S. firm was in the third quarter of 1972, when RCA Corp. reported a $250 million loss. In 1970, the Penn Central Transportation Co. declared a 12-month loss of $31.2 million.

The company's loss before tax credits was $894 million. The largest part of that was a pre-tax loss of $750 million caused by the shutdown of steel mills in Lackawanna, N.Y., and Johnstown, Pa., where a disastrous flood on July 20 interrupted production.

The company set out in late July to trim costs by cutting production 10 per cent. Some 7,300 workers were permanently laid off in Johnstown and Lackawanna, and Bethlehem estimates layoffs will reach 12,000 employees.

"We believe the closing of marginal facilities and other actions taken leave Bethlehem in a stronger and leaner condition to take advantage of opportunities for growth," Chairman Lewis Fox said in announcing the record loss.

Lot Of Coffee Piles Up In Brazil As Public Resists

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The American public may be winning its battle with coffee growers in Brazil, where an awful lot of the product is piling up.

The long battle has had its ups and downs, and it isn't unusual in today's volatile markets for the seeming victor to be the suddenly vanquished. Whatever, the domestic price of coffee has been falling.

Since last spring, to illustrate, the Folger Coffee Co., a division of Procter and Gamble, has reduced the wholesale price of ground roasted coffee by $1.25 a pound to a current level of $3.18. Brazil, meanwhile, remains determined to keep its minimum export price at $3.20 a pound — that's for green rather than ground and roasted. And at that price it is able to sell almost none to the United States.

Instead, a good deal of U.S. green coffee comes from Colombia, whose growers have been selling to American master-grinders at less than $2 a pound.

How long Brazil can hold out against a market that differs so enormously from its own view of things may have something to do with Brazilian foresight or stubbornness or the financial condition of its growers.

Clearly they hope for a return at least to their minimum export price, but such thinking is at variance with very obvious changes in the American market.

For one thing, the relatively high price of coffee has apparently driven away many customers. Citibank analysts estimate per capita coffee consumption this year will fall to about 11 pounds on a green bean basis, compared to 12.8 pounds per person in 1976.

Americans are perhaps more health conscious as well, concerned about alleged links between coffee consumption and stress, as well as by the medical profession's new emphasis on disease prevention rather than remedial treatment.

The situation, however, is hardly static.

Factors over which no person has control, trust and plant disease especially, could once again cut available stocks to the point where the market is again dominated by sellers rather than buyers.

—The drop in U.S. consumption could turn out to be a passing phenomenon. Coffee is closely tied to social custom as well as taste. Those who tend to this viewpoint recall that cigarette consumption has remained strong despite warnings that smoking may be hazardous to health.

—Marketing strategy, such as a strong media campaign to emphasize the merits of the beverage, could conceivably change a lot of consumer minds. While Brazilians might not appreciate it, there is a lesson to be recognized in the resistance of consumers. They are not totally pawns of the sellers, as they sometimes believe; they can exert pressure.

While coffee producers have learned this lesson rather recently, it is nothing new to the marketplace. Producers of red meat have felt such pressure, as have cigarette manufacturers — less star and nicotine — and domestic automakers, among others.

Whether the impact is long-term or ephemeral is another matter, perhaps boiling down to whether the American public needs a cup of Brazilian coffee more than Brazilian growers need an American dollar.

Judges Going Back To School

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan judges are going back to school.

The state Supreme Court has announced a year-long series of lectures, workshops and seminars for all Michigan judges, court administrators, clerks, court reporters and others.

"I think the Supreme Court has a mandate to see the state's judicial system be efficient, economical and maintain a high degree of professional excellence," said Justice James L. Ryan, who will supervise the new Michigan Judicial Institute.

While not mandatory, Ryan said that "those interested in the quality of justice in the state

SANDWICH FAVORITE of Jerry (Assembly Steakhouse) Ossip: Mashed liverwurst and hard-boiled egg, topped with a slice of ham and slice of Swiss cheese... Best-Dressed restaurant host of the week: Tony Silsen of Murray Konyant's Christo's, NYC... Talented Nancy Dussault is now appearing in the Broadway hit, "Side By Side By Sundown"... Basset-horn Marthe Keller stars in "Bobby Deerfield." That's my kind of Swiss cheese!... The Pen & Pencil restaurant offers nine choices of steak on its evening menu... Remember little Skippy in the movies? Jackie Cooper just turned 55, in September... Residents on Korea's east coast recommended snake soup for breakfast to provide stamina. It's said to taste like chicken... Unforgettable Childhood Joys: "Inheriting" the chocolate candies that your mother had squeezed and discovered that she didn't like... Highly Recommended: Julie LaRosa, now doing a fine singing act on the Playboy Clubs circuit. And a delightful version of "Tartuffe," starring John Wood and a topflight cast at Circle in the Square, NYC... The engagement of Tote Fields at the Westbury Theater was a complete sellout long before the opening.

KITCHEN SPOILING: Season your slowing fruits with onion, cardamom, cinnamon or rosemary (Pierre Au Tunnel, NYC)... Add lima beans to cheese sauce for a delicious fried noodle topping (Grossinger's, N.Y. State)... Squash and pumpkin seeds make good snacking. Wash away adhering food particles, dry, place in a lightly oiled flat tin over warm stove or in a moderate oven for 5 minutes. When thoroughly dry, store in a glass jar (Proof of the Pudding, NYC).

HELPFUL HINTS: If coffee spills on a rug, blot up excess, then rub the spot with a mixture of detergent, vinegar and water... Spare batteries will keep fresh longer if wrapped in plastic to keep them dry and stored in freezer.
